Accidental drowning

The body of Kenneth Wayne Haislip, 31, Smithton, was recovered Friday night from a small pond on the E. L. Birdsong farm, Route 0, by diver Don Kabler, center. While seining for minnows, Haislip apparently became entangled in pond underbrush and drowned. Friends were unable to recover him. Jerry Collins, 1900 South Harrison, left, assisted in the rescue operation. (Democrat-Capital Photo by Tom Maupin)

Diver recovers Smithton man's body from pond

A diver recovered the body of a Smithton man about 10 p.m. Friday from a small pond on the E. L. Birdsong farm, Route O.

Kenneth Wayne Haislip, 31, drowned about 8:30 p.m. when he apparently stepped into a hole and became entangled in the pond's underbrush. The body was retrieved by diver Don Kabler, South Highway 65.

According to Deputy Sheriff Don Stratton, Haislip, Max Birdsong, Route 2; and Birdsong's son Danny were seining for minnows in the 12-to-14-foot pond north of the Birdsong farm house. The three planned to go fishing later that evening in the Lamine River.

Birdsong told authorities Haislip walked into the pond and suddenly sank. He said his son Danny, 13, tried unsuccessfully to pull Haislip ashore by his hair. Birdsong, who added he does not know how to swim, said he and Danny then tried to pull Haislip ashore but were unsuccessful.

The Pettis County sheriff's department, the Sedalia-Pettis County Civil Defense and Kabler were then called to the scene.

Kabler said Saturday night Haislip's body was found in about seven feet of water. "It's quite possible he could have been caught on something," Kabler said. "But he was free when I got to him." It makes me feel bad that a life's gone."

According to deputy Sheriff Jim Cave, recovery of the body took about 15 minutes. He said Birdsong told him Friday night the pond was filled with dead elm trees.

"He could have gotten tangled in tree limbs," Cave said. "He could have gotten a cramp in the water. How cold it (the water) was depends upon whether the pond is spring fed. But as far as we're concerned, the drowning was accidental."

Mr. Haislip was born Aug. 29, 1943, in Alix, Ark., son of Clarence and Stella Brown Haislip. He married Carol Johnson in September, 1963, who survives of the home.

Mr. Haislip was the former manager of the Kroger Family Center and was employed with Bing's Super Markets. He was a member of the Ben Hur Masonic Lodge, Kansas City, Kan.

Other survivors include his parents, Clarence and Stella Brown Haislip, Kansas City, Kan.; one son, Jim, of the home; three sisters, Mrs. Margaret Lewis; Mrs. Frances Chronister; and Mrs. Gail Kozikowski; all of Kansas City, Kan.

The body is at McLaughlin Brothers Funeral Home and will be transferred to Kansas City, Kan., for cremation. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Over New Hampshire election

Senate Democrats attempt showdown

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats tried to force a showdown by Tuesday as debate over last November's disputed New Hampshire Senate election dragged through an unusual Saturday session.

The debate ended abruptly in early afternoon because of the lack of a quorum, in part due to Republican absenteeism and solid Democratic opposition to GOP moves to broaden the election inquiry.

When Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield finally moved that the session adjourn until Monday, only 16 of the 38 Republicans and 33 of the 61 Democrats were present. Fifty of the 99 Senators must be on hand to do business.

"I don't see any further purpose to be gained at this time by further consideration of this matter," Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., told reporters.

The only substantive action in the session was the defeat of two more Republican efforts to broaden the probe.

Earlier in the day Assistant Democratic Leader Robert C. Byrd of West Virginia filed a cloture petition that will enable the Senate to vote Tuesday on whether to limit debate and force action on the question.

At stake is whether Republican Louis C. Wyman or Democrat John A. Durkin was the winner of the election.

Some Republican help may be needed to obtain the 60 votes needed to limit debate, and both Democratic leaders said they doubted any GOP senators will back the move.

But there were indications that sufficient GOP support to limit debate might be available, if not on the first cloture attempt, then on a second effort likely later in the week.

One Republican senator, asking not to be quoted by name, said several GOP colleagues favor cloture on the grounds that a vote to limit debate is a vote "for representation, one way or another."

Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., said virtually all of the 61 Democrats might back cloture and "we have a good crack at it, maybe on the first try."

Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., termed the move "a flexing of muscles by the majority."

Meanwhile, the Senate rejected, 41 to 18, another Republican effort to broaden the review of the race. It would have permitted a recount in any precinct where the total for either candidate was changed after the original election night tally.

Byrd had also sought to set time limits for debate with a motion calling for a final vote by 6 p.m. next Friday, but Republicans refused to agree and Chairman Howard W. Cannon, D-Nev., of the Rules Committee, moved to table and thus kill the motion.

Democrats charged that Republicans were filibustering, but Sen. James A. McClure, R-Idaho, disagreed, saying "we just have to protect our rights."

Republicans, outnumbered 61 to 38 in the Senate, have contended that extended debate will educate the country on what they contend is an attempt by Democrats to steal the election for Durkin.

Democrats, however, contend that New Hampshire's Ballot Law Commission stole the contest originally when it ruled Wyman has a two-vote win after the first recount had given Durkin the victory by 10 votes.

Portugese troops gas Maoist demonstrators

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Portuguese troops fired shots and tear gas to disperse Maoist demonstrators Saturday a few hours after the country's military rulers announced they aim to set up a classless society but rejected violence as a way of achieving this.

About 250 members of the Maoist Movement for the Reorganization of the Party of the Proletariat staged a protest outside the Caxias prison 10 miles west of Lisbon, demanding the release of jailed colleagues.

After 1½ hours troops began firing and commandoes poured from the woods, chasing the young demonstrators up a hill into another clump of woods. The firing continued for three or four minutes and several demonstrators were clubbed to the ground and kicked by commandoes.

Some newsmen said they saw troops aim automatic weapons at demonstrators, but a spokesman for the Continental Defense Command, the security force that controls the commandoes, said they were mistaken. The spokesman said there were no casualties from the clash and just one arrest.

Earlier, the 30-member Revolutionary Council ended nearly 24 hours of talks by issuing a lengthy document in which they rejected demands for immediate establishment of a Communist state. The document instead set a goal of a classless socialist society in which the means of production is commonly owned.

"The Armed Forces Movement repudiates the implantation of socialism in a violent or dictatorial way," said the document. At the same time, it said there must be no violence to prevent the establishment of a socialist state by democratic means.

Non-Communist Portuguese politicians and Western diplomats were relieved by what they saw as the document's moderation. They had feared much more radical measures as the military redefined national aims amid an economic collapse and an evaporation of public authority.

Socialist Mario Soares, leader of Portugal's largest political party and the strongest opposition to rising Communist influence, told journalists: "There is more hope for parliamentary democracy today than there was yesterday."

In the broad policy statement, the military endorsed the role of civilian political parties and restated a commitment to pluralist democracy. It said democracy must be seen in the context of a classless society and affirmed that socialism and freedom are compatible.

Funny business can be dangerous

By MAX ERKELETIAN

WINDSOR — Several hundred eyes search four chutes for the one holding a cowboy and a bull. Suddenly a chute door bursts open and a brahma bull flings its body into the air tryingto spill its rider and trample him.

Watching with the crowd, just out of the center of attention, is the rodeo's baggy-panced comedian, the clown.

Over the loudspeaker come words of encouragement. "Stay with him cowboy!" The ride can end with the shrill horn signalling a successful attempt. It can also end with the dull thud of the cowboy flung onto the hard arena dirt. That's when the man with a grease-paint face goes into action.

Joey Steverson, this year's Windsor Rodeo clown, makes his living diverting the attention of incensed brahma bulls from fallen riders to himself. He does this by hitting the bulls in the face. His antics are fun for spectators, life-saving to cowboys and dangerous for him.

Now in his early 30's, Steverson has been a rodeo clown for 18 years and says there is nothing he would rather do. "I want to be a clown as long as I can move," he told the Democrat-Capital as he applied white make-up.

"I just like it," he added," you get to go every weekend and see all the guys." He speaks highly of the cowboys who work the rodeo circuit with him. "They'd do anything for you. One man will help another man when they both might be competing against each other," he said.

Joey began an early career as a rodeo clown. "I used to ride bulls," he said, "but I'm from Mississippi and they didn't have many clowns down there so I started. It paid $25 a night and I got to work every weekend."

Asked what it takes to be a clown, Steverson said, "You only got one job and that's to fight bulls." His job has left its mark on Steverson. Part of his skull is steel, thanks to an angry bull. "You've got to be fit to do it (be a rodeo clown) and you got to want to," Steverson commented, adding, "and sometimes you wish to hell you hadn't."

Several years ago in Hutchison, Kan., Steverson was working the third day of a six-day rodeo when an angry bull tossed him into the air. "That's when it's bad," he said, "when you're up in the air and you look down and the bull's waiting for you." When he came down it was head first into the horns of the bull. He was injured badly, but continued to work the rodeo.

Several weeks later, when his "headache" had not subsided, Steverson went to see a doctor. He was admitted to a hospital and surgery followed. Steverson says that was his worst injury.

"I've walked out of many of them (hospitals)," related Steverson. "You never realize you're hurt 'til its all over."

Steverson estimates a rodeo clown can continue his career 15 to 20 years after turning 30. "I used to know a clown who worked til he was 62, but there aren't many around like that."

The comedy routines he does between events are, by Steverson's own admission, the products of some grand larceny as well as his own imagination. At times his arena pranks cause bad feelings. In Friday's performance he "cleaned" a cowboy's hat in a "machine" that exploded the new Stetson. Steverson said the cowboy's anger subsided quickly. However, rodeo sponsors, the Windsor Jaycees, bound-up in the spirit of the joke, set fire to the cowboy's only other hat.

The bits of humor Steverson performs last only minutes, but some are so elaborately staged that he says preparation takes up to five hours for one act.

Being a rodeo clown takes a great deal of effort and desire. "Some's just got it," says Steverson. "and some don't."

Tom Sawyer style?

Virginia Robinson, Stover, (left) and Barbara Dunham, 909 East 15th, braved 90 degree temperatures Saturday to help paint the home of Mrs. Lily Kehl, 1500 East Broadway. About 18 members of the local Parents Without Partner's group began the all-day ordeal at 7 a.m. "This is our first group paint job," commented Mrs. Kehl. "I don't think we're ready for another one yet." The group planned on stopping work at 5 p.m., "whether we're done or not."

Giacana's death puzzles police

OAK PARK, Ill. (AP) — Cook County authorities were reported Saturday to be seeking subpoenas to question a number of gangland figures who visited Chicago crime boss Sam "Momo" Giancana before he was slain.

Police continued a house-to-house canvass of neighbors Saturday, looking for witnesses who might aid in the investigation of the shooting here late Thursday night in Giancana's fortress-like bungalow.

Chicago and Oak Park police believe Giancana was ordered killed by syndicate leaders who were concerned he might trade underworld information sought by federal prosecutors in exchange for his freedom.

Officials discount robbery as a motive since $1,458 was found on his body.

Giancana, owner of gambling palaces in Havana before Fidel Castro's takeover in Cuba, had been scheduled to appear next week before the Senate committee investigating the Central Intelligence Agency. Some reports said he was involved in a CIA-backed plot to kill Castro.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the committee, said he would give "no credence" to any speculation of CIA involvement in Giancana's death.

Church, noting that Giancana was also set to testify before a federal grand jury in Chicago, speculated that underworld figures may have decided to be certain he would keep silent.

Giancana, 65, was recuperating from surgery to correct post-operative gall bladder complications when he was slain. He was killed by six .22 caliber bullets — one in his mouth and five in his neck — as he prepared a snack of sausage and spinach in the basement of his house.

Joseph Durso, Cook County assistant state's attorney, refused to "comment on any possible grand jury investigation or the investigation of the murder itself."

But he did not discount published accounts that county grand jury subpoenas will be sought to question Charles English and Dominick Blasi, two close friends of Giancana. English has been identified as a gambling figure and sources in the state's attorney's office identified Blasi as a long-time bodyguard to Giancana.

Giancana also reportedly met a few weeks ago with Anthony "Big Tuna" Accardo, the syndicate's chieftain, and Joseph Aiuppa, Giancana's successor as head of the daily operations.

Giancana, a flashy dresser who once favored the company of singer Phyllis McGuire, was a driver for Al Capone and rose through the syndicate ranks to take control of operations in Chicago.

Pathet Lao soldiers still camped in diplomat's yard

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — Three Pathet Lao soldiers armed with submachine guns camped in the yard of the top United States diplomat in Laos for the second day Saturday despite the Foreign Ministry's assurance they would be withdrawn.

The three soldiers, who belong to the dominant Communist-oriented faction in Laos' coalition government, sat in the shade and refused to answer reporters' questions.

When the troops appeared Friday on the grounds of the house of U.S Charge d'Affaires Christian A. Chapman, the American Embassy protested to the Laotian Foreign Ministry. The ministry said the soldiers were not supposed to be there and would be removed.

Regarding the soldiers' continued presence in his yard, Chapman said, "We have taken it up with the Foreign Ministry and they said they would look into it.

Inflation levels are cut by half

NEW YORK (AP) — The recession which caused another drop in industrial production last month has also cut the rate of inflation in half from last year's levels.

While some economists read the government figures as further indications the recession has bottomed out, others fretted about corporations' reductions in capital expenditures, which could lead to shortages and more inflation if a fast, powerful recovery develops.

The Labor Department reported Friday that consumer prices rose .4 per cent in May, bringing the 12-month rise to 9.5 per cent, the first time since January, 1974 it was below the double-digit pace.

James L. Pate, assistant commerce secretary, said inflation is now running about 6 per cent on half of the 12 per cent posted in 1974. Pate said inflation could recede to a 5 per cent level by yearend.

Earlier in the week the government reported a .7 per cent rise in personal income during May, the sixth consecutive monthly increase but the biggest since September.

Housing showed signs of a pickup after a long winter. Starts during May jumped 14 per cent to a 1.13 million seasonally-adjusted rate. But they remained at a 28-year low and 23 per cent below the pace of May 1974.

Government figures show that industrial output lags behind other indicators of recovery, however. For the eighth straight month, production at plants and factories was down, off .3 per cent in May.

President Ford, whose aides indicated he might defer or cancel another dollar tariff on imported oil, lashed out at the House of Representatives' energy package, which was sent to the Senate Friday.

In corporate news, American Telephone and Telegraph Co. said its earnings for the quarter ended May 31 were up from the first quarter but down from the record profit posted in the May 1974 quarter.

And Gulf Oil Corp. and Rockwell International disclosed they were talking about joint ventures, which might include merger.

The Great Commandments

Jesus said, "YOU MUST LOVE THE LORD YOUR GOD WITH ALL YOUR HEART, WITH ALL YOUR SOUL, AND WITH ALL YOUR MIND. THIS IS THE GREATEST AND THE FIRST COMMANDMENT. The Second resembles it: "YOU MUST LOVE YOUR NEIGHBOR AS YOURSELF."

(Matthew 22:37-39)

In these Commandments there is a startling and perhaps a many times unrealized command - We must love ourselves - for only if we love ourselves can we know how to love our neighbors. Again this means we must be convinced of our own worth and essential goodness. To do this we must know who we are, where we come from and where we are going. We can find this out by understanding our relationship to God.

The Kingdom of Jesus is a Correspondence Course that clearly shows the way to God and the reasons we have for loving ourselves. This Course comes with questions to help you understand its meaning - it is yours free for the asking. Just mail in the coupon below.

Mideast summit ends; no progress on peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Syrian Foreign Minister Abdel Halim Khaddam concluded their meetings Saturday with no sign they made any progress on restarting the Middle East peace negotiating process.

Khaddam came to the United States as part of President Ford's reassessment of the American Middle East policy ordered after Kissinger's step-by-step effort to arrange interim settlements between Israel and the Arab states broke down.

What effect Khaddam's visit will have on the reassessment is uncertain but it was clear after Saturday's breakfast session with Kissinger that the secretary was concerned over the slow pace of the talks.

"We reiterated as the President has stated repeatedly that the United States ... would oppose any stagnation and stalemate," the secretary said.

This has become an American signal, one State Department official explained, of dissatisfaction over the attitude of some of the nations in the Middle East.

Kissinger was asked after the breakfast if any progress had been made in the talks, which included a meeting Friday between Khaddam and Ford.

Declining to answer specifically, Kissinger said that "I am always hopeful." On Friday, Kissinger and presidential press officer Ron Nessen had pointedly refused to say if any progress had been made.

On Saturday, the secretary would not even say he was hopeful about a further agreement between Syria and Israel. "I don't want to express any predictions," Kissinger said.

The breakfast was arranged after Kissinger and Ford became dissatisfied with Khaddam's position during the Friday talks. One State Department official said clarification was needed on several matters.

It was understood Kissinger wanted firmer support from Syria on a resumption of his efforts at arranging a partial Egyptian-Israeli settlement as an interim measure before taking on a wider peace agreement.

Khaddam also repeated his lack of confidence in the U.S. ability to convince Israel that it must give up Syrian territory captured in the 1967 and 1973 wars.

Kissinger said he would remain in touch with Khaddam, who is returning to Syria this weekend, through diplomatic channels.

British officers plead for life of lecturer

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Two British officers flew by helicopter to northern Uganda on Saturday to ask President Idi Amin to spare the life of a British lecturer scheduled to die before a firing squad in Kampala's "execution valley".

Amin, however, had already rejected a plea for clemency by Queen Elizabeth II and said that only a quick trip to Uganda by British Foreign Secretary James Callaghan could save 61-year-old Denis Cecil Hills.

Lt. Gen. Sir Chandos Blair and Maj. Ian Grahame Hills, both of whom commanded Amin in the King's African Rifles during British colonial days, flew to Uganda from London to meet with the president. Blair told newsmen in Kampala he was an old friend of Amin's and said it was easier for an "old friend to have a discussion with another friend."

Hills, a lecturer, described Amin as "a village tyrant" in the manuscript for the book he was writing about his life in Uganda since 1964. He was sentenced to public execution by a five-man military tribunal that found him guilty of treasonable acts against Amin and the military government.

Ugandan radio said the execution is scheduled for 11 a.m. Monday (5 a.m. EDT) in the area of Kampala that was the scene in 1898 of the execution of 27 Moslem Sudanese soldiers who mutinied while serving under the British. Though Ugandans call the area "execution valley," the British call it "mutineer gully."

The execution had been scheduled for Saturday, but Amin postponed it to allow Callaghan time to get to Uganda.

The queen despatched Blair to Kampala late Thursday with a personal letter for Amin. It was believed to contain an appeal for Hills' life.

Ugandan radio quoted Amin as saying on Friday that Callaghan's presence in Uganda "is absolutely necessary before Monday if the life of Mr. Hills is to be spared. If he comes before them we will discuss the political side of the matter."

Sedalia man escapes injury in gas fire

A Sedalia man escaped injury at 8:15 p.m. when the garden tiller he was filling with gas caught fire.

William Fingland, 2314 South Ingram, was in his yard filling the tiller with gas when the warm engine apparently ignited the gas fumes, a spokesman for the Sedalia Fire Department said.

Damage to the tiller was estimated at $500.

Pilot's body found in Osage River

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP) — The body of a pilot whose plane crashed into the Osage River four months ago was found Saturday 13 miles downstream. Two others died in the crash of the plane, which was conducting a low-level observation of eagles along the river.

Sheriff Wyman Basinger of Cole County said the badly decomposed body of Lloyd Allnutt Jr., 30, of Wheeling, was found snagged in trees at the side of the river Saturday by a fisherman near U.S. 50 southeast of Jefferson City.

Authorities said the identification of Allnutt was made through papers on the body, including an authorization from the Federal Aviation Administration for a low-level flight.

Also killed in the crash were Jerry Wilson, 27, of Sumner, and Judith Southern, 32, of Fulton, a graduate student at the University of Missouri-Columbia who was conducting the study of eagles. Their bodies were recovered from the plane when it was lifted from the river near Osage Bend.

The plane crashed into the river after hitting a suspended cable Feb. 10.

Blind baby 'sees' with sonar

PALO ALTO, Calif. (AP) — A baby blind since birth now can "see" his favorite toy and reach out accurately to take it in his hands.

And he delights in playing sightless peek-a-boo with his mother.

Dennis Daughters, 8 months old, "sees" much like a bat does, by broadcasting silent sounds that return as audible echoes. The echoes tell him where things are, and other knowledge about the world he cannot see.

It's all done through special equipment within a kind of beanie cap worn on his head.

Dennis is apparently the first blind baby in the world ever to experiment with an echo-sounding or sonar device, says Dr. Tom Bower, a Scottish psychologist who conceived the project. He believes a blind baby learns to think better if he knows early how to move about in his world and to reach for things.

Dr. Bower enlisted the aid of Telesensory Systems Inc. (TSI) in Palo Alto which supplied the equipment free of charge.

A beam of ultrasound is broadcast to and from a transducer system, about the size of a half-dollar and weighing only 1½ ounces, in the middle of a headband on the baby's forehead.

Objects struck by the beam return echoes, which then are translated into audible sounds, conducted through plastic tubes to the baby's ears. The sounds are a repeated series of pleasant little whistles. They are quite subdued so the baby can also hear everything else around him, including his parents' voices.

The echoes tell:

—The distance of an object, through pitch of the sound. The closer the object is, the lower the pitch.

—Direction, because an object to the right of center produces a louder sound if something is more to the right than the left. So Dennis knows if something is more to the right than left, or can "focus" straight upon it by turning his head until the sounds are equal.

—Size, by the intensity of the echo when he is looking directly at it. By moving his head slightly, he can define the edges of it, where echoes diminish.

—Surface. Hard, smooth objects echo back a clear, pure sound. Fuzzy surfaces sound "mushy."

Hence, Dennis can identify his favorite toy, a rubber caterpillar with six projections or spikes on it, with a soft side that he likes to rub against his cheek, a side that produces a squeak under pressure. He can distinguish it as against an object of similar size, both about as big as a man's hand, Dr. Bower says.

Dennis likes to stand on his mother's knee, receiving a strong signal when he looks directly at her. He's learned he can "turn her off" by looking to one side, then "turn her on" again by looking directly at her.

This is his peek-a-boo game, producing smiles and giggles.

SCEA to meet Monday with school officials

Representatives of the Sedalia Community Education Association (SCEA) will meet once again Monday with Sedalia school administrators to discuss a proposed teacher salary revision.

Assistant Superintendent of Schools Earl Findley said Saturday the meeting will be a "work session and discussion" to determine how the proposed salary adjustments could affect the anticipated 1975 school budget.

Harold Johnston, chairman of the SCEA professional concern and development committee, declined to comment Saturday on committee requests.

The only comment Johnston would make was, "It has to do with salaries." indicated no formal requests have been submitted to school administrators.

About seven members of the SCEA committee met with school administrators at 1 p.m. Friday to discuss salary revisions.

However, because no final decisions were made Friday, the two groups will meet at 1 p.m. Monday at the Board of Education building, 400 West Fourth.

Three facing charges seek mental exams

Three men being held in the county jail filed motions in Pettis County Circuit Court Friday requesting mental examinations.

Charles Timothy Braddy, 18, Guthrie, Okla., and Christopher Wayne Post, 17, Pocahontas, Ill., are charged with first-degree robbery by means of a dangerous and deadly weapon. They were arrested May 26 in connection with an armed robbery the same day at the Charles Bybee farm, Route 4.

Post maintains, in his motion, that in the past and on the date of the alleged robbery he has suffered from periods of "not knowing what was going on around me."

He claims to have been examined before at the Central Comprehensive Mental Health Center, Centralia, Ill.

Braddy also claims a similar mental ailment and says he has been examined by a psychiatrist in Cairo, Ill.

Post and Braddy are being held in lieu of $15,000 bond each in the county jail.

Charles E. Smith, 35, Route 4, has also asked for a mental examination because, "I feel I have certain psychiatric problems" which will affect his case in court, according to the motion.

Smith is charged with writing a bogus check for $40 to Connor-Wagoner, 414 South Ohio, on April 29. He was arrested May 2. Smith is in the county jail in lieu of $3,500 bond.

Question

It is my hope that should any organ in my body be acceptable after my death for transplantation to someone else that this may be done. Does this pose any conflict with a religious funeral service?

Answer

It has been impossible to poll more than a sampling of the 300 plus religious sects in America. Although Orthodox Jews are still opposed to transplantation, the consensus would indicate that from a Christian and Reformed Jewish viewpoint there is no conflict. On the contrary, it would appear that the donation of an organ for transplant is one of the most unselfish things we can do in the spirit of universal brotherhood.

From our viewpoint as morticians there is no reason why the removal of an organ for transplant should alter any aspect of a funeral service. The appearance of the deceased person will remain unchanged. We have perfected our techniques to cooperate with the medical profession. Very possibly someone dear to us may someday be the donor or the recipient of an organ transplant.

U.S. citizenship a possibility for young Welshman

By ED VAUGHAN
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

A 25-year-old Welshman currently studying farming methods in the Central Missouri area says he may return to the United States one day to live.

David W. T. Rees, a dairy farmer from South Wales, United Kingdom, is in Pettis County with the International Four-H Youth Exchange (IFYE) program, conducted by the National 4-H Foundation in behalf of the Cooperative Extension Service.

Arriving in Pettis County on June 12, Rees is staying with the Anthony Simon family, Route 3, the second stop in his five-month stay in the U.S.

Rees and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Rees, operate what is considered a large dairy operation, Llaethdy Farm, near Carmarthen, South Wales.

The average Welsh farm consists of about 70 acres, however Rees' father owns 170 acres and rents another 50, making it a rather large operation by comparison. A graduate of the Royal Agricultural College, the younger Rees has lived on a dairy farm all his life and plans to make farming his career.

The extreme climate and temperature changes here have been most notable to Rees so far. In Wales, temperatures range from the 30's to a high of about 75, he said.

"We average 50 to 55 inches of rain per year," he said. Last year his area received 70 inches of rain from October to April, the winter season.

As a result of the wet climate, Rees said farmers in his country are "over-mechanized" for what they produce, but they have no choice.

When the rain allows a dry period during the planting or harvesting season, Welshmen must get into the fields in full force to take advantage of the dry weather, he said.

David Rees, 25, South Wales, is enjoying his three-week stay with the Anthony Simon family, Route 3, as part of the International Four-H Youth Exchange program. Here Rees is timing the next bale onto the automatic loader. He said he normally works at the top of the loader, stacking the hay in the barn.

While some farmers in the U.S. can share a fertilizer or baler, when the dry periods in Wales come, everyone must get into his own fields at the same time, Rees explained.

Grass is the primary crop of Welsh farmers, with some corn (called maize there) grown for silage and barley. Most farmers use their own produce to feed dairy cattle and beef cows, he said.

About 50 per cent of Wales' beef production is exported, Rees said, while most milk produced is used in surrounding areas.

If Americans think U.S. gasoline prices are high, they should be glad to know that they pay only about one-third those paid by the Welsh. An Imperial gallon, slightly larger than a U. S. gallon, costs $1.75, Rees said. Gasoline got "quite a bit tight ... but nobody was really desperate," during the recent Arab oil embargo.

Surprisingly enough, since most farm vehicles are diesel, farmers had no real problem obtaining enough gas, Rees said. It did cut down on all traffic though, he noted.

Wales covers approximately 5,000,000 square acres, with all but about 500,000 used for grass and rough grazing. The population of 2,500,000 live mostly in South Wales, where the steel and coal industries are centered.

"There is a lot of waste in America," Rees observed. Farmers here tend to go around a wooded area or draw, or round corners where fences meet, while Welsh farmers use ever square foot available, from fence to fence, he said.

English is Rees' "first" language, with his native Welsh being used less and less in recent years. Many night classes are being held in Wales to teach the younger children the native Welsh language, he said. About half his countrymen still use the Welsh dialect, he noted.

Rees arrived in Washington, D.C., on May 16 and will depart for home on Oct. 11. His schedule calls for his stay in Missouri to last through July 9, when he will go to Pennsylvania after a week of free time. He will also have another free week on Oct. 1 prior to his return to South Wales.

Although studying farming methods here is his primary interest in visiting the U.S., Rees also wants to view the American way of life, 4-H programs and to "enjoy myself."

Financial sponsorship for his stay is provided by friends of 4-H through the Cooperative Extension Service and the National 4-H Foundation.

The program with the United Kingdom is conducted in cooperation with the National Federation of Young Farmers' Clubs (England and Wales), the Scottish Association of Young Farmers' Clubs and the Young Farmers' Clubs of Ulster.

Weekender

By ERMA BOMBECK

In trying to pull a wardrobe together for my vacation, I ran into an incredible phenomenon — the pre-planned, no-fault, can't-miss, color-coordinated basic wardrobe.

"This," said the salesperson, "is the Weekender. It has four basic pieces that will take you from a super casual afternoon to a formal evening. And here is the Fortnighter. It's an 11-piece coordinated collection designed to meet all the fashion requirements of a two-week cruise. This, of course, is the Around The World In 80 Days and 44 Pounds. It's 22 pieces that combine to make 156 outfits."

"This little stack of clothes weighs 44 pounds?" I asked.

"Of course not. The clothes only weigh 8 pounds. There's a 36-pound can of deodorant that comes with it."

"How does it work?" I asked.

"You just press the nozzle and..."

"Not the deodorant! The wardrobe!"

"Simple. Here is your basic pants suit. Take off the blouse, add the vest and you're ready for polo. Take off the slacks, put on the shorts and you're dressed for bicycling. Zip the lining into the shorts, add the halter and it's a bathing suit. Take the straps off the halter and it's a bra. Add a short skirt and you're ready for tennis.

"Now, turn the blouse inside out and it's a bathrobe. Turn down the cuffs on the slacks, take the belt off the overblouse and you're in your jammies."

"It certainly is versatile," I stammered.

"Versatile! Look at the accessories. This elasticized halter can get you a sun tan, but when pulled down over the hips is a girdle. Now, slip into the evening skirt, slip on this veil, and you're ready to be married. Or, slap a monogram on the jacket and you can pass for a member of the U.S. Olympic Chess team. The long skirt is plastic-lined. If you have to, you could convert it into a tent and live out of it for a week. Or snap out the sleeves in the overblouse and it's a caftan.

"Take off the scarf, roll down the sleeves of the blouse, put it on backwards, take off your underwear and it's a hospital gown. Trust me, there are enough combinations to mix and match for 80 days."

"What's this?" I asked picking up a small plastic kit.

"That's a kerosene and the box of matches for the 81st day or when the deodorant runs out ... whichever comes first."

Cancellation of project is urged by Corps

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — The Army Corps of Engineers has recommended cancelling eight water resource projects in Nebraska, Iowa, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Wyoming and Montana.

The projects are no longer economically feasible or needed or no longer have local support, the Missouri River Division said Friday.

The projects are:

—Pioneer Lake which would have covered 3,250 acres in Yuma County, Colo., Cheyenne County, Wyo., and Dundy County, Neb.; the Lower Big Sioux River project in Iowa; Arlington, Richland and Hackleman Corners Lakes in Missouri; Morrison unit in Colorado; Dayton project in Wyoming; Billings eastern unit in Montana.

Columbia man begins his own anti-crime fight

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — A 45-year-old businessman is launching a drive for 100 able-bodied men to remedy what he calls "crime at epidemic proportions" in Columbia.

In his newspaper advertisement scheduled for circulation Sunday, Bill Lindsey, owner of Lindsey Rentals Co., is recruiting men between the ages of 25 and 55. The advertisement says the men will be armed and capable of self defense and will conduct stakeouts, primarily to protect businesses against burglary and theft.

"We're not going to lynch anybody," said Lindsey, who said he has been a victim of burglary and theft. "We're not going to have night riders and burn crosses. But if a man is involved in an armed robbery and he pulls a gun on a merchant and we have the place staked out, we're going to shoot."

Police Chief David Walsh and Boone County Prosecutor Milt Harper suggested if citizens want to help police, they should join the police auxiliary unit. Walsh also said the feels the community is too intelligent to support vigilante activities.

Police statistics indicate a 50 per cent increase in the number of burglaries from January to May over the same period of 1975.

Would-be U.S. doctors turn to European schools

NEW YORK (AP) — Some of the thousands of young American college graduates who seek a medical career but are unable to gain admission to U.S. medical schools, because of the severe shortage of facilities rather than lack of qualifications, are turning to Europe for their education.

At present there are almost 2,000 Americans studying medicine in Europe, perhaps 30 per cent of them in Italy, according to the Institute of International Medical Education here.

Most of those studying in the 28 medical schools in Italy were directed to that country through this organization and its affiliate, the Italo-American Medical Education Foundation.

"Each year approximately 45,000 young American men and women apply to schools here, but there are only about 14,000 vacancies in the United States for medical enrollees," says Albert B. Schrager, who heads the Foundation, established to further international medical exchange.

Another 200 Americans will start medical studies in Italy this summer through the Foundation. At the same time, 40 Italian senior medical students, three Italian doctors and 30 Italian senior researchers will work here as part of the exchange program.

The senior medical students will be funneled to hospitals all over America to learn the latest American medical developments; the three doctors will spend a year at Wagner College, New York City, taking a master's program in microbiology; and the research scientists will work as part of American research teams in major research facilities here.

"Bringing these young Italians over is our way of saying 'thank you' to the Italian government for keeping the door open to our sons and daughters in their quest for the medical careers they are unable to find in their own country," says Schrager.

While most medical schools in Europe have virtually closed their doors to American medical students, Italy maintains a different attitude, he says.

"While the Italian medical system is bursting at the seams, they believe that anyone who wants a medical education should get one," says Schrager. "That doesn't mean that they will accept Americans in unlimited quantities, but it does mean that if they have the necessary qualifications, they have a good chance.

"The pity of it all is that the shortage of vacancies in the United States is primarily one of economics," says Schrager. "A new medical school here would cost in the neighborhood of $150,000,000, and that would accommodate about 75 to 125 first-year students. The important thing that we're trying to do is not primarily to see that more medical facilities are built here, although that is a secondary goal, but to effect easier transfers back for students in their third and fourth years to take their clinical courses here. The facilities for those do now exist."

For the men and women starting their studies this summer, their first stop will be the University of Perugia where, for four months, they will take intensive language, culture and medical orientation courses. The language course will consist of 300 to 400 hours of comprehensive Italian, with emphasis on grammar conversation and an introduction to medical vocabulary.

The cultural and medical orientation program, for which they are divided into small groups with senior American or Italian students as group leaders, will provide them with the practical introduction, information and guidance to enable them to adjust to the university life and culture of Italy.

They may elect to take the entire six-year medical course in Italy and then return to practice medicine in the United States after first passing the test for foreign medical graduates.

In the world of the magazine How-To article you have to depend on yourself, and it is always a good feeling to know that you can. For quite awhile now, or since I first learned to read, this comforting knowledge has been mine, due — oddly enough — to a certain flawed judgment that has proven 100 per cent reliable. It works for me the way a similar handicap does for someone with a bad sense of direction, who learns to take what he is sure is the wrong road because experience has taught him it will prove to be the right road.

This reverse doublethink is exceptionally handy in figuring out the home-improvement articles. I mean those helpful magazine pieces that show you, with big before and after pictures, how to solve what they call problem areas — problem attics, problem basements, problem fireplaces, and so on. These are not only educational, they are fun; and I often make a little game of it, never peeking at the picture-captions while I am deciding which one is which.

Take the piece entitled "The Problem Window." It features two pictures of the same wall with the same window in it but given a different treatment (a word decorators use as much as doctors do; what the customer naturally does to his place is a disease, and what the decorator does about it is the treatment.)

In the first picture, the window is quite a recognizable window: has a window shade and either lets the light in or doesn't, depending on whether the shade is up or down.

The other one is harder to describe. It has some sort of wall-papered canopy on the top, with little shelves down the sides where ivy sits growing in pots, and bookshelves come right up next to the pots, and the windowshade has disappeared altogether! This is a problem window, all right, as anyone can see. You'd have to climb onto a stepladder to water the ivy in the pots, and some of the water couldn't help dripping onto the books, or at least whatever books your elbow hadn't knocked off while you were watering, and the window hardly lets any light in at all, because of that canopy-thing on top.

Well. Have you got a surprise coming. That was the solution-window — the treatment window — not the problem window. The problem window was the one that looked like a window. (But I really knew this all along, you see, because of my increasingly-nimble doublethink.)

Or take the area of faces and makeup. As you may or may not know, there are problem faces as well as problem windows, but the cosmetics people say any problem face can be solved with the correct makeup, as they prove with two pictures of the same lady. Her problem is a big nose.

Being far from underprivileged in the nose department, myself, I study the two pictures with interest. In one, she is wearing too much eye makeup, and her nose is very big and dark. What in the world could she have been doing to it, I wonder to myself. Painting it, with some forlorn notion of camouflage, and got into the wrong paint can? Or bumped into something dusty? Because in the other picture, her nose is just as big, but at least it's the same color as the rest of her face and looks quite clean. "Thank goodness they fixed that up for her," say I and then read on to find that the big dark nose was the improvement. (Though I actually knew this, deep down... see above.)

So this seems to be the system: make up your mind, then jump in the opposite direction and you'll land with the experts. Of course it may not be for everyone, and I'm not saying it's efficient. A doublethink takes more time than a singlethink. But we all have to find out our own way in these things. Like getting into or out of a hammock, it isn't how you did it that counts, it's the fact that you eventually did.

Artificial bat manure could be expensive

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — It apparently will cost about $38.5 million to build the nation's first plant to produce synthetic bat manure.

The substance is used as a coolant, lubricant and corrosion-fighter in military weapons.

The plant, to include 21 buildings on more than 200 acres, will be built at the Sunflower Army Ammunition Plant site near Lawrence, Kan., the Army Corps of Engineers said in Omaha Friday after Thursday's bid opening.

Hensel-Phelps Construction Co., Greeley, Colo., is apparent low bidder with an offer of $38,545,000, the corps said. That includes various types of construction, including buildings, pipelines, roads and railroad lines.

The substance is nitroguanidine, the teachnical name for "unrefined bat manure," according to Ken Aylor, corps spokesman.

"We make it chemically; the bats make it naturally," he said.

The plant is scheduled for completion in 1981. The United States has been buying nitroguanidine from Canada, Aylor said.

A powder, it is the third stage in the propellant in ammunition, he said. Smokeless and flashless, it extends the life of rifling in the field or naval artillery, he said.

Firing has a corrosive effect on the inside of barrels, he said. "The nitroguanidine goes in the tail end, reducing the amount of corrosion, cleaning things out, so you don't have to replace the rifling as much," Aylor said.

Acquittal is refused

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A federal judge has refused to acquit former Sen. Edward J. Gurney on any of seven criminal charges in an alleged influence peddling scheme and ordered the defense to begin presenting its case Monday.

U.S. District Court Judge Ben Krentzman, after hearing day-long arguments without the jury Friday, denied all motions for directed verdicts of acquittal for the Florida Republican and three codefendants in the 17-week-old trial.

Defense lawyers claimed the government failed to produce evidence to sustain a conviction. But prosecutors insisted the evidence was "overwhelming."

The government struck back at defense attacks on the credibility of former Gurney fundraiser Larry Williams, a key prosecution witness.

Asst. U.S. Atty. Ralph Heikkinen predicted the defendants will be convicted and then Williams "can stand and proudly say he is an honest man. He has been vindicated."

Gurney, ex-aide Joseph Bastien and former federal housing officials K. Wayne Swiger and Ralph Koontz are charged with conspiracy to create an illegal slush fund from builders by peddling Gurney's influence with the Federal Housing Administration.

Hamburger inventor quitting

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) — Louis' Lunch, which claims to have served the first hamburger, has closed its doors to make way for a modern nine-story complex of medical offices and shops.

Kenneth Lassen, the owner, says his grandfather, Louis Lassen, invented the hamburger and served it in the 12-by-18 foot snack shop starting in 1917.

Regular customers and the curious jammed Louis' Friday for a last ground beef burger — on toast and without ketchup.

Louis', which depended on a neighboring building for its fourth wall, was popular with Yale University students and businessmen. There was room for only about 25 customers at a time and a line often formed outside on the corner of Temple and George streets.

Lassen, who has fought since 1965 to preserve Louis' at the current site or at another location he can afford, was optimistic he could save his business.

"We still have a week, and miracles have happened in a week," said Lassen, who is known for his sideorders of homey philosophy and good natured insults.

The land is owned by the city's redevelopment agency which first notified Lassen in December 1965 of its plans to develop the choice corner lot across from two department stores.

The agency gave Lassen final notice Tuesday to vacate the building, designated a New Haven landmark because of its association with the hamber, by July 2. The city also has offered to store the small brick building for 60 days if Lassen finds a new location by Thursday.

Lassen says he plans to move out equipment and the wood benches this weekend.

"Things look kind of cocked," he told a newsman. But he added, "I think this will be saved by someone who has a piece of land."

Louis' got its start in 1895 as a Meadow Street lunch cart operated by Lassen's grandfather, a Danish immigrant. About the turn of the century, he began serving steak sandwiches.

Meat scraps from the steaks, cut up and cooked separately, were offered in a sandwich which the Lassens claim was the original hamburger.

Man shot to death

ST. LOUIS (AP) — James Smith, 34, of suburban Northwoods, was shot to death Friday night in an apparent robbery on the city's west end, police said.

Smith, whom acquaintenances said was carrying a large sum of money, was found shot in the back of the head, officers said.

One mistake and he gets another chance

KANSAS CITY (AP) — His immediate superior explained the hiring of Dr. Alford H. Ottley as an administrator of the Metropolitan Community Colleges of Kansas City as "a human renewal."

"I would hope that a man's future would not be totally destroyed on the basis of an error that he made," said Dr. Ervin L. Harlacher, district chanceller of the community colleges. "We are a human renewal agency ourselves."

Ottley was hired here Thursday night, then received a three-year probationary sentence Friday at Jefferson City on a charge of stealing more than $50.

He was forced to resign in January as dean for planning and development at Lincoln University in Jefferson City because of the charge.

Ottley told Judge Byron Kinder of the Cole County District Court in Jefferson City that he had raised the value of a university contract by $200 in order to include a camera for school use. Leniency was recommended by the state Board of Probation and Parole. The probationary sentence resulted.

"We felt we should not hold this particular problem against him," Dr. Harlacher said. "We felt, based upon his record and his potential, that he was worth recommending."

Ottley's annual salary as director of institutional development for the community colleges will be $24,387.

KU president makes final appearance

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Dr. James A. McCain, president of Kansas State University, appeared before his 25th and final "All-Grads Banquet" Friday night.

McCain, who has addressed the annual alumni banquets each of his 25 years, will retire at the end of the month.

Sticking to the traditional format despite the significance of the occasion for him, McCain said, "All alumni of this university have cause to be grateful to the Board of Regents, governors and legislators for substantial increases in the state's financial support of Kansas State. It has faciliated an improvement in the quality of all the programs of the university."

He noted that in the last two sessions, the state legislature has increased K-State's appropriations by $10 million. Nearly two-thirds of this has been allocated for salaries, he said.

Law enforcement funds for county are approved

The Missouri council on Criminal Justice has approved a budget of $151,940 for region 13 for the 1976 calendar year.

According to Sheriff Emmett Fairfax, who attended the council meeting in St. Louis, Pettis County will receive approximately $14,930.

Of that figure, $8,100 is earmarked for the county juvenile office; $6,425 goes to sheriff's department and Green Ridge law enforcement personnel; and $405 was approved for equipment for the sheriff's department.

Fairfax said the equipment purchased with the federal funds will be used for investigation at crime scenes. The equipment will be carried in in patrol cars and will include identification kits and additional equipment for field investigation.

The funds are divided between Pettis, Johnson and Lafayette Counties, which make up region 13 of the council.

The $151,940 budget was allocated to district 13 under the following categories: Juvenile offices, $16,000; manpower, $52,000; probation services, $11,700; equipment, $22,000; jail projects in Johnson and Lafayette Counties, $46,210; and a computer network center in Warrensburg, $3,369.

Fairfax said the allocations to each district in the state were based on a population formula. He said the money is part of overall federal funds received by the state.

"Since this is figured on a population basis, I feel we've received our share of the money," Fairfax noted.

New group former

Adopted people seeking their backgrounds

TULSA (AP)—The longing of an adopted person to know his real life history has drawn a group of "graduates" of a former high-society Kansas City maternity home into a fight to open sealed records.

In particular, "Willows Graduates Adopted" (WGA) is taking issue with the Jackson County, Mo., bureau of vital statistics. The bureau, according to the Tulsa-based group, has thrown roadblocks into efforts of persons born at The Willows to obtain original birth certificates which would provide names of at least the mother.

Margaret Anderson, the original name of a prominent Tulsa woman who was born there Aug. 28, 1925, has launched the effort. Her work has led to forming the volunteer group and now they are asking for anyone who was born at the home before it closed, or parents of children born there, to write them at P.O. Box 52621 in Tulsa.

"The bureaucracy has denied the right of all other adoptees to their original birth certificates," she said of the Jackson County office. "They're too busy, records are too long or are across the street in another building, you have no right to them. If you are able to go to court then you can get them."

If persons who were born there will contact the organization they can be told the procedure to get the records legally and without exhorbitant expense, she says.

The Willows operated in Kansas City from 1905 until it closed in 1969 and its records were presumably burned.

An estimated 25,000 to 35,000 babies were born at the home and their records sealed in Jackson County. However, the records were sent to state offices at Jefferson City and can be opened there on a court order from the person's home.

Margaret Anderson, who says she is luckier than most of them, has learned she was the daughter of a Dorothy Anderson and a Kansas City man whose name was not placed in the record.

"This was the racy, roaring '20s in wild, rich Kansas City," she says. "The Willows was like the Ritz or the Waldorf of homes for unwed mothers. It had a lot of snob appeal and the owners were members of Kansas City society."

The original owners, she says were Edwin and Cora May Haworth, in conjunction with Dr. John W. Kepner.

"Operation of The Willows was very strict. Not just every unwed mother could get in. They were recommended by prominent doctors throughout the United States, and not everyone qualified to adopt the babies. Some prominent entertainers were refused simply because they were in that ugly, dirty entertainment business."

The mothers-to-be, mostly from Midwestern states, were met at the railroad depot and taken to the home in large cars. They remained there in seclusion until after the baby was born.

"They had all types of entertainment and the girls became close friends, their babies were delivered in the hospital there," the Tulsa woman said.

Applicants to adopt babies were screened as carefully as the mothers.

"They were very strict," she said. "The applications for adoptions had to contain recommendations from their home cities, including bankers, lawyers or other substantial people in the community.

The Tulsa woman was determined years ago to learn her parentage. She was fortunate because her parents had not had her birth certificate amended in Missouri, she says, but was brought to Oklahoma.

She has her original birth certificate, which contains only her natural mother's name and the state where the natural mother was born—Kansas—her occupation, her age and the name she wished to give the newborn child.

"I have my original birth certificate only because my birth certificate was never amended in Missouri to my adopted parents' name. My adopted mother wanted me to know where I came from after she died, so she took the original birth certificate to Oklahoma to have it amended for adoption and kept it for me," she said.

Her natural mother wrote a letter to her adoptive parents outlining the heartaches she had.

"I have waited, yet hated for this day to come when I would have to give up my own flesh and blood," she wrote. "No one but a mother could possibly realize what it means. I think if you could trace back the child's parentage, that you would find nothing that would mar the child's life."

Another woman who was brought to Tulsa by her adoptive parents was not as lucky. Her original certificate was amended in Kansas City and she had not been able to track down the original until Margaret Anderson got in touch with her through a mutual friend.

Just a few days ago the two women drove to Jefferson City, armed with a court order from a Tulsa judge, and promptly got the ceritficate.

WGA is making no effort to contact young persons who were born at The Willows. Beginning in 1948, home addresses of both adoptive and natural parents were kept by the home—which had not been done earlier—making it easier for those persons to track down their families.

Besides, one of the women says, older persons who want to find out are not as apt to be hurt by the information.

One "graduate" has already been able to trace his parents, only to learn they have died.

Margaret Anderson may or may not be able to find her mother—but she is trying constantly. "But at least, I know," she says.

The volunteers—there are now about 15—work daily from Margaret Anderson's family room in her home in southeast Tulsa. Fortunately her husband has been willing and able financially to carry huge costs of trips, telephone calls and postage she has run up in her work.

Others are beginning to contact WGA. "In particular, more men are writing us. Usually it is women who are more anxious to learn their parentage," Margaret Anderson said.

"Now, if we can just let others know the information can be obtained," she said

Ann Landers

Another piece of babysitting advice

Dear Ann Landers: May I add a word of advice for both mothers and sitters — on behalf of the child?

It can be very traumatic for a youngster to be left with a total stranger on a moment's notice. The sitter should be invited to the house as a guest to say hello a day or so before she takes on her first job with a new child.

It can be a terrifying experience for a little one to be left with a person he or she has never seen before. The sitter must then calm the child and reassure him, and this can be a difficult job.

So please, Ann, add this suggestion to your list of "helpful hints" for both mothers and sitters. — It Happened To Me

Dear Happ: Excellent suggestion. Thank you for writing. Your letter is a good example of how an ounce of prevention can be much better than a pound of cure.

Dear Ann Landers: I am in love with a man who is 27. We became engaged a short time after we dated — two and a half months, to be exact. We both felt we were just right for each other, so why wait? We announced our engagement last week and arrangements are being made for our wedding.

There's a problem that keeps me up nights. My fiance cannot seem to get over his former girl friend. They talk on the phone and see each other occasionally. I believe he is still in love with her. He refuses to discuss it, but I know something is there. I'm afraid I caught him on the rebound and he is too much of a gentleman to back out. How do I find out if I'm right or wrong? He's not a very good talker and I'm not a very good listener. This is a cry for help, Ann. — Three's A Crowd

Dear C: You are obviously beset with doubts, which is no way to go into a marriage. Cancel the wedding plans at once and give your finance his freedom. If he really loves you and not the old flame you'll know it within a few months. It's easier, my dear, to reinstate plans for a wedding than to go through a divorce.

Dear Ann Landers: You sometimes print pet gripes which can be very useful because people learn from them. Here's mine: The Wrong Number.

I often wonder who these people are who make phone calls at 3 a.m. Either they are insomniacs or folks who work nights and sleep during the day.

It so happens that my husband and I work days and we need our sleep at night. This past month we have been awakened three times between 3 and 4 a.m. by some jerk looking for "Alice." Once that phone jangles us out of a sound sleep the night is shot. It also means feeling lousy the next day. It just isn't fair.

Please, Ann, ask your readers to dial with care — especially after midnight. It's the very least one can do for his fellow man. Thank you. — Red-Eyed This Morning

Dear Red: Here's your letter and I hope it helps. Unfortunately, at least half of those wrong numbers (especially the jerks who are looking for "Alice") can't see the dial for the booze — so please don't expect me to produce miracles.

A no-nonsense approach to how to deal with life's most difficult and most rewarding arrangement. Ann Landers's booklet, "Marriage — What to Expect," will prepare you for better or for worse. Send your request to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120, enclosing 50 cents in coin and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Reports on success of office

A total of 46 active alcoholics, out of the 127 counseled from April 1, 1974 to April 1, 1975, have been motivated to stop drinking, according to a report released recently by Richard Battles, Sedalia-Pettis County counselor on problem drinking.

This recovery rate of more than 35 per cent is well above the national average of 10 per cent, noted Battles, who is a member of the Governor's Council on Alcoholism and Drug Abuse. The total number of persons interviewed regarding alcoholic problems was 173.

In addition, Battles reported, he counseled approximately 50 persons addicted to drugs other than alcohol. Many of these persons, he added "have two monkeys on their backs" because they are addicted to both hard drugs and alcohol.

Between 50 and 60 per cent of those persons convicted of driving while intoxicated in Municipal Court are referred to his office by Judge Jack Cunningham, Battles said. Of these, 40 per cent were "hard core" alcoholics, 30 per cent were beginning alcoholics and 30 per cent were social drinkers.

Battles reported he has distributed 597 booklets dealing with problem drinking and related items during the year covered in his report. He also worked with out-patients at the Mid-Missouri Alcoholism Treatment Center, Columbia; Fulton State Hospital; Shrine on the Hill center, Kansas City; and detoxification centers in other sections of the midwest.

Fire destroys two buildings in St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Two buildings covering two square blocks wrre destroyed Friday night when a general alarm fire erupted in a old boxcar manufacturing plant on the city's south side, police said.

The blaze erupted in an assembly warehouse at the Amcar AFC Industries plant about 8:30 p.m. and quickly spread to an adjoining building used for welding, officials said.

Feeding on wood in both structures, which were built in 1890, the blaze raged for two hours before firefighters brought it under control. Four boxcars next to the warehouse were also destroyed.

Officials said the single-story buildings had been idle for several weeks because of a strike by some 1,700 Amcar employes. No injuries were reported.

St. Louis Bomb and Arson squad officials were investigating.

Driver's education courses are vital

The widespread acceptance of driver education courses in the nation's high schools was given a boost by the Highway Safety Act of 1966, which stipulated that every state should have a highway safety program, including driver education, designed to reduce accidents.

In a recent survey it was found that about 83 per cent of high schools had driver ed programs, with 98 per cent of them offering one that meets or exceeds their state's standards. Usually, this is the "30 and 6" course — at least 30 hours of classroom instruction, plus six hours of practice driving, either on regular streets and roads, on a special off-street driving range, with a driving simulator or combinations of all of these.

Basically, the high school student learns how to handle a car mechanically and perceptually so that he or she may drive safely, observing the rules of the road. In the past, parents taught their children to drive and often passed on to them poor driving habits and stereotypes. This doesn't happen as often today because of driver education.

Many insurance companies recognize the value of driver education by allowing premium reductions for drivers who have passed an approved course. Actuarial tables show that such drivers have fewer accidents.

But if eight out of 10 schools have approved driver education courses, this means that two out of 10 don't have a standard program, or possibly none at all.

Moreover, with taxpayers across the country voting down school levies, in some districts the driver education program is one of the areas being affected by budget-trimming measures. This is true even though, according to the Highway Users Federation, 95 per cent of some 40,000 cars used nationwide in the programs is dealer-loaned, and even though many states reimburse schools for each student taking driver ed.

Whatever an individual school district might save, cutting down on driver education is false economy for the nation as a whole.

"Good driver training can achieve a 10 per cent fuel savings — an impressive conservation measure," according to Carl Wenzinger, president of Doron Precision Systems Inc., a manufacturer of driving simulators.

Driver training not only cuts down on accidents, he says, but also on gas consumption because students learn to start properly, brake correctly and drive in a manner conducive to fuel conservation.

Far from being a frill, says an American Automobile Association spokesman, driver education is the single most important course a high school student can take, and the one most immediately useful. (NEA)

FBI break-in part of its investigation

By JACK ANDERSON with Les Whitten

WASHINGTON — There have been whispers around Washington that the FBI, like the CIA, has occasionally used burglaries as an investigative technique. We have now nailed down one illegal FBI break-in.

It happened some four years ago during a flurry of bombing threats against synagogues and death threats against Jewish leaders.

The FIB, called in to investigate, became suspicious of a known bigot a few miles from Washington, D. C. Tipped off that he might be plotting violence against Jewish leaders, an FBI break-in squad entered the bigot's dwelling illegally in search of incriminating evidence. The burglary attempt was faked to look like an ordinary housebreaking.

Word of the FBI break-in reached Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., during the Senate Watergate investigation. Thinking the incident might have Watergate overtones, Baker asked committee counsel Sam Dash to check into it.

Dash confirmed from official sources that the FBI committed the break-in but that it had nothing to do with Watergate.

Footnote: Presented with our information, Dash acknowledged his role in the incident. The FBI refused comment.

THURMOND'S REVENGE: We recently described the plight of a lowly Pentagon officer, Lt. Col. Wilfred Ebel, who made the mistake of antagonizing Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C.

Old Strom, you see, is no ordinary senator. He is also a spare-time, two-star general, the commander of Capitol Hill's bay window brigade, the beau de guerre of the congressional cloakrooms. No military hero is more honored by the Pentagon than is Thurmond who leads the Army's legislative battles in the Senate.

The unfortunate Ebel, as part of a confidential study of the Army reserves, criticized one of Thurmond's comrades-in-arms. Ebel portrayed Maj. Gen. J. Milnor Roberts, the Army reserves chief, as lazy and incompetent.

From on high on Capitol Hill, Old Strom snorted with displeasure over such heresy. He protested to Army Secretary Howard "Bo" Callaway, an able, amiable fellow, who knows where Army appropriations come from.

Callaway obligingly brought down the Pentagon roof on Ebel's head. The Army Inspector General was turned loose not against Roberts, who was accused of mismanaging the reserves, but against Ebel who had dared to say so. Ebel's name also was dropped from the promotion list, his Pentagon job was yanked out from under him and he lost a bid to become executive director of the Reserve Officers Association.

When we reported all this, the Thurmond apparatus turned upon us. We were assaulted with telephone calls and letters from the Pentagon, Capitol Hill and other strategic places. The general theme, omitting the abuse, was that we had exposed the wrong man and that we should have taken Roberts' side against Ebel.

Old Strom himself sent out letters accusing us of "extreme exaggeration and falsification."

Meanwhile, the obliging Callaway, with an eye still on Old Strom across the Potomac, tried to soothe Roberts' ruffled feelings by awarding him the Army's highest noncombat award, the Distinguished Service Medal.

Our report on Roberts, however, wasn't based upon Ebel's evaluation alone. Not only did we check with our own independent sources in the Pentagon, but we have obtained still another official evaluation which Callaway must have thought was safely buried in Army files.

Gen. Bernard Rogers, who heads the Army Forces Command, also conducted a study of Roberts' operation. This study, which was submitted to the Army Vice Chief of Staff, backs up Ebel's evaluation.

The Rogers study charges that Roberts' office caused "the needless waste of tens of millions of dollars in training costs."

On Nov. 4, 1974, for example, Rogers' command handed down to Roberts "122 troop actions designed to eliminate units which were poor performers and which were excess to Department of Army force requirements." Yet four months later, only eight of the money-saving actions had been taken while "114 remained incomplete," the report alleges.

The study, unusual for its blunt language, concludes "the current system has almost ceased to function." And much of the blame is laid squarely at Roberts' door, particularly with respect to his failures in getting units into combat readiness.

Yet this same Roberts, who allegedly helped to waste tens of millions of dollars, received the Distinguished Service Medal from Callaway. And Roberts' implacable champion is none other than the old economizer himself, Sen. Strom Thurmond.

Footnote: We asked Roberts for his comments. He acknowledged there had been delays in eliminating money-wasting units. But he cited documents showing other Army officers were also responsible for the delays. He claimed that he had been merely "a nice, convenient scapegoat" for the Rogers report. "It sounds as if it's simple," Roberts said, "but it's not. The system needs to be improved. The Army is loaded with bureaucracy."

A conservative view

Federal bureaucracy at the bedside

DAYTON, Ohio — The federal government's involvement in health care grows larger all the time, and perhaps inevitably, the federal bureaucracy grows along with it. If you happen to be in the hospital business, your life has become an endless hassle.

Kilpatrick

The Kettering Medical Center, a teaching institution with 409 beds and a staff of 1,400, stands handsomely in a park-like setting just south of Dayton. Completed 11 years ago, it is as modern an institution as one could ask. By any rational standard, it is completely safe. But the Kettering is in deep trouble with the bureaucrats. More than a hundred other hospitals, in 35 states and the District of Columbia, are in the same fix.

In the bureaucratic view, the situation is pure heaven. For the harassed hospital administrators, the situation is something else. In some fashion, the administrators must satisfy the captious, conflicting, nit-picking, and sometimes foolish demands of competing agencies. If patients and taxpayers truly benefited from this rigamarole, the multiplying rules, regulations and inspections might be justified. No such benefits are apparent.

The Kettering's problems are entirely typical. At the time it was built, the medical center complied fully with the Ohio building code, the municipal fire code, the Hill-Burton construction requirements, and the demands of the underwriters. The hospital was inspected and accredited by the respected Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH).

Three years ago, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare got congressional approval for its notion that JCAH accreditations should be "validated." That is, the government's own inspectors, applying their own criteria, should check around. At random, the government selected 144 hospitals for validation. One of them was the Kettering Medical Center.

Last September the validators descended. Dr. M. H. Schaffner, Kettering's president, still is shaken by the experience. The surveyors praised the institution's construction and maintenance, but the team from HEW had its paperwork job to do. By applying its own standards, HEW compiled a bristling "statement of deficiencies." The hospital was ordered promptly to submit a plan of correction.

One complaint had to do with the hospital's airflow system. It was immaterial to the HEW surveyors that the system was safe, efficient, and fully in compliance with state and local requirements. Kettering's windows are kept locked — a key is at every nursing station — for sound reasons of patient security and airflow engineering. Never mind, said the bureaucrats. The fenestration must be redesigned and replaced so that windows may be opened. If a sick or deranged patient falls or jumps to his death, too bad.

A hassle developed over wastebaskets. The validators said plastic liners were prohibited, lest a spark ignite a bag and create toxic smoke. Dr. Schaffner said plaintively that if he took the bags out of the wastebaskets, he could be cited by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration. Under OSHA regulations, the liners are required, lest hospital workers be infected by handling contaminated trash. An informal compromise was reached: Dr. Schaffner would take the liners out while the HEW inspectors were on the scene, and put them back for the OSHA people.

In an effort to get along, the Kettering has corrected many of the supposed deficiencies. It would cost an estimated $500,000 to remedy every complaint. The cost ultimately would fall on the patients, who would be not one whit better off. If the hospital fails to comply, HEW could cut off its reimbursement for Medicare and Medicaid patients.

Of the 144 hospitals subjected to validation inspections, 105 lost their accredited status. In 16 states, every hospital failed to qualify. It is only a matter of time, one may be certain, before HEW proposes to extend its own regulations not merely to a random sample of American hospitals, but to all hospitals throughout the nation.

Art Buchwald

We are all hard at work ...

WASHINGTON — There has been too much criticism in the country lately as to the lack of action in Washington on the crucial issues of our time.

Buchwald

The fact is that everyone in this town is working as hard as he or she possibly can. The problem is nobody understands how our government operates when the President of the country is of one party and the majority of the Congress is of another.

Let us take a hypothetical example to illustrate the point.

Suppose one of the most pressing needs of the country is a national policy on massage parlors. Futurists would warn that if we continue at the present rate we will run out of rubbing alcohol and steam by 1989.

The President in his message to Congress would urge strong conservation measures, including a tax on turtle oil, as a means of cutting down the number of massages every American has each week.

But the Democratic Congress would claim that a tax on turtle oil would hurt the little man — the truck driver, the airline pilot and the salesman — who needs massages to relax him from his work.

House Majority Leader Carl Albert would then announce that the Democrats would come up with an all-inclusive national massage policy that the people really wanted, instead of the stop-gap measures advocated by the President.

The President would go on television with a calendar, and appeal to the American people. He would tell them that whatever the Democrats came up with on massage parlors would just add to the national deficit and increase inflation. He would warn that no matter what bill Congress proposed, including his own, he would veto it.

The House Subcommittee on Massage Parlors would hold hearings for five months. They would hear from massage parlor owners, masseurs and masseuses, and natural steam producers. Then the committee would vote out the most comprehensive bill ever presented to Congress.

It would call for a Federal No-Fault Massage Parlor Agency which would monitor all aspects of the massage industry. A surtax of $2 would be placed on every bottle of rubbing alcohol. No new massage parlors would be built without an environmental impact study as to what effect it would have on the surrounding area. It would also provide for a billion-dollar subsidy for people who could not afford massages, to be paid through Social Security benefits. And it would call for price controls on steam baths, in spite of warnings by the steam industry that unless the price of steam was deregulated there would be a lot of cold shower rooms in the country this winter.

After hot debate, a strip-mining bill would be tacked onto the massage parlor legislation at the last moment.

The Democratically controlled Senate would pass a similar bill with its own amendment prohibiting the CIA by law from operating a massage parlor within the continental limits of the United States.

When the bill finally got to the President's desk he would veto it without reading it, explaining to the press, "I know anything they send down from The Hill is no damn good."

The House and Senate Democratic leadership would immediately swing into action, demanding that every Democrat vote to override the President's veto. Each Democrat would pledge his loyalty to the party and then go out on the floor and allow the President's veto to be sustained.

Thus the country once again would have no national massage parlor policy. The President would blame Congress and Congress would blame the Administration for ignoring the crisis. Who was really to blame? No one and everyone. And that, dear citizen, is what Hamlet (of Hamlet's Massage Parlor in Arlington, Va.) would say "is the rub."

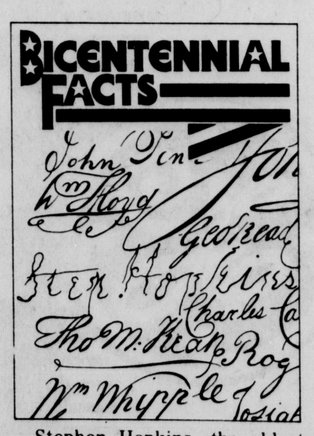
White death

Avalanches of dry snow usually strike so swiftly that even when someone sees the slide coming, there is no chance to get out of its way. But some victims buried alive have been able to breathe in air pockets — liked trapped miners — until rescue workers dug them out. The "white death" avalanche, however, makes escape impossible. It consists of masses of very light, powdery snow.



Stephen Hopkins, the eldest signer of the Declaration of Independence next to Benjamin Franklin, is remembered for his tremulous signature. Aged 69 and afflicted with palsy, according to tradition he declared, "My hand trembles but my heart does not!" Hopkins subsequently served on the committees that prepared the Articles of Confederation and created the Continental Navy, The World Almanac notes.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

North and South have nine of the easiest tricks possible at notrump, but most pairs would land at four spades with or without West's club overcall.

There are the nine tricks available at spades, but 10 are necessary.

The easiest place to find that 10th trick is in hearts. Just let the suit break 3-3 and South's fourth heart will become a winner.

South can do a trifle better than that. He can guard against a 4-2 heart break provided the man with the four hearts also holds three or four spades.

This should be enough of a hint to you to find the winning line of play. If you haven't found it, here it is.

South takes the first club, plays one round of trumps, leads a heart and ducks in both hands. He can't afford two rounds of trumps — some mean opponent might lead a third. And he can't afford to play out the high hearts first — someone might get to overruff dummy.

After this start the contract wheels in. South gets in with a diamond, plays one more trump, continues with the ace and king of hearts and finally ruffs his last heart with dummy's last trump while poor East has to follow suit.

CARD SENSE

The bidding has been: 21

West	North	East	South
Pass	1 N.T.	Pass	3 ♦
Pass	3 ♠	Pass	?

You, South, hold:
♠ 2 ♥ K J 9 7 5 ♦ A K Q J 4 ♣ A 4
What do you do now?

A — Your partner must be showing the ace of spades and suggesting a diamond slam. Just bid six diamonds.

TODAY'S QUESTION

Instead of bidding one notrump your partner has raised you from one heart to two hearts. What do you do now?

The sun and wind

I sat and watched a mild wind play
In a tree top about a block away,
'Twas evening and the setting
sun
Was moving west, day nearly done,
Still high enough that it was bright
And on the tree top shed its light.
Like brilliant stars I watched lights twinkle,
I almost thought I heard bells
tinkle,
Then suddenly it lost its spark,
The tree top green grew very dark.
What happened now? I said aloud,
Looked at the sky and saw a cloud,
A soft white cloud, the only one,
And yet it covered up the sun,
Just for a moment, then once more
The dancing diamonds as before,
It looked almost like April rain
Pitter pattering a gay refrain,
The wind and sun combined to make
In the tree like ripples on a lake.
Leaves caught by sunlight, moved by breeze
Rhythmic swaying in the trees
So very fast and then real slow
Depending how the wind might blow.
The sun dropped lower, lower till
The light was gone, the wind grew still,
Night darkness crept across the sky
As I sat watching the long day die,
A day that I had watched unfold
With beauty filled with summer gold,
A day when enchanted I watched the light
Fade slowly into the dusk of night.

Beard takes third round of U.S. Open

Open leader

Frank Beard, Louisville, Ky., putts on the 15th green at Medinah in the third round of the U. S. Open Saturday. At this point Beard was four strokes under par. He finished the 54 holes 3-under, for a total 210 to lead after the third round. (AP Wirephoto)

MEDINAH, Ill. (AP) — Frank Beard, once one of the game's great players but a pathetic, struggling figure in recent months, fired a magnificent 67 that lifted him from eighth strokes off the pace to a three-shot lead in Saturday's third round of the U.S. Open Golf Championship.

The 36-year-old Beard, the 1969 leading money winner who had collected only $522 in five months of play this season, swept past suddenly-stricken front-runner Tom Watson with a 54-hole total of 210, three-under-par.

Watson, who shared the lead in the first round and held a three-stroke advantage with a record-matching 36 hole score of 135, collapsed to a 78 that left him at 213, even par.

Beard was the only player under par after three rounds over the 7,032-yard Medinah Country Club course, a tame and timid kitten of a layout for the first two day's play but a snarling tiger in the 90-degree heat and high humidity that marked Saturday's action.

It sent them all—all but the enigmatic Beard—stumbling in shocked dismay, head-shaking frustration, bitter exasperation reeling back in the pack.

Even the mighty Jack Nicklaus couldn't escape. The Masters champion, the holder of 15 major titles, the greatest player the game has known saw his improbable dream of a modern Grand Slam fade and all but disappear on the strength of a 75, four-over-par that left him seven shots back with only 18 holes to play.

"It was just one of those days when you never get it going, never develop a swing," said Nicklaus. "The result...75."

Nicklaus shook his head when asked about his chances to keep alive hope for the unachieved one-year sweep of all the world's major titles.

"I've got to get over this round before I start thinking about the next one," he said.

Lee Trevino also had a 75 for 216. Gary Player of South Africa shot 72-220. Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller each had fat 41s on their front nines. Miller finished with 76-223. Weiskopf salvaged a 74-220. Defending titleholder Hale Irwin had 73-218, five-over-par.

Arnold Palmer double bogeyed his final hole for 73-217.

"It's just a bad hole. Let's don't talk about it," Palmer said.

They all had their troubles. The reason seemed to be a mystery.

"There's no reason for it," said Nicklaus. "The course isn't playing hard. Actually, it's pretty easy. The fairways are good, the greens are holding. There's no reason for it—except possibly that it's the third round of the U.S. Open."

Watson, who blew this title with a poor final round last year, was tied for second with Pat Fitzsimons, who shot a third-round 73.

Ben Crenshaw, the 23-year-old who had such a fantastic start as a pro two seasons back, shot 76 and was tied at 214 with Lou Graham and England's Peter Oosterhuis. Graham had a 68 and Oosterhuis an unusual 72 that was made up of nines of 41 and 31.

Beard's sudden return to the top was even more startling than his slow descent into the golfing depths.

"It would be a decided understatement to say this is my best round in the last 3 years," said the quiet, thoughtful man from Louisville.

"It's like a child getting a new toy."

Long noted as one of the game's premier putters, Beard had parlayed that ability on the greens into 11 tour titles and a budding fortune.

But it all came to an end in 1971. He won his last title that year. He slipped in 1972. The slump deepened the next year. He slid even more the next one. And this season he hit rock bottom.

He missed the cut in 13 consecutive tournaments. His stroke average was almost 75. He made official money in only two of 19 tournaments through the first five months.

Then it started to come around.

Winning streak stopped

Royals nip the A's, 4-1

OAKLAND (AP) — Steve Busby pitched a five-hitter while George Brett and Hal McRae hit home runs to lead the Kansas City Royals to a 4-1 victory over Oakland Saturday, snapping the A's five-game winning streak.

The victory was the 10th of the season against five losses for Busby, who struck out eight and walked only one batter, helping the Royals to pull within 2½ games of the first-place A's in the American League West.

Oakland got its run in the first inning when Bert Campaneris doubled and Claudell Washington singled. Brett hit his fifth homer of the year to tie it in the third inning, then Kansas City went ahead to stay with with two unearned runs off Ken Holtzman, 6-7, in the fourth.

Giants 4, Braves 3

ATLANTA (AP) — Steve Ontiveros cracked his first home run of the season and Dave Rader slapped a two-run double, sparking the San Francisco Giants to a 4-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves Saturday night.

Ontiveros' homer, a solo blast, sailed over the right field fence in the sixth inning off Atlanta starter Carl Morton, 7-7, and gave the Giants a 4-1 lead and what proved to be the winning run.

The Giants took a 1-0 lead in the third when Derrel Thomas tripled and scored on Von Joshua's single.

Orioles 3, Red Sox 0

BALTIMORE (AP) — Jim Palmer cooled off Boston's hot bats with a five-hitter Saturday, becoming the major leagues' first 12-game winner by pitching the Baltimore Orioles to a 3-0 victory that snapped the Red Sox' six-game winning streak.

Palmer, who has lost three times, struck out eight batters en route to his 11th complete game and sixth shutout of the season, which lowered his earned-run average to 1.56, the best among regular starting pitchers in the majors.

Twins 8, White Sox 3

CHICAGO (AP) — Dan Ford slugged a pair of home runs and Danny Thompson and Steve Brye hit two-run doubles Saturday to lead the Minnesota Twins to an 8-3 victory over Chicago, handing the White Sox their fourth straight loss.

Ford hit a two-run homer in the third inning after Tom Kelly walked. The White Sox came back with three in the bottom of the third against winner Bill Campbell, 1-3, to go ahead, but Thompson's two-run double capped a three-run sixth off Jim Kaat, 10-4, that put Minnesota ahead to stay.

Yankees 4, Tigers 1

DETROIT (AP) — Pat Dobson fired a seven-hitter to win his sixth straight game and the 100th of his career Saturday, leading the New York Yankees to a 4-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The victory, which went to reliever Ramon Hernandez, 3-2, was the fourth in a row for the Pirates, their eighth in the last nine games.

Expos 5, Phillies 1

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Errors by Dick Allen and Tony Taylor gave the Montreal Expos a pair of unearned runs in the first two innings Saturday, and the Expos went on to beat the Philadelphia Phillies 5-1.

Montreal scored in the first inning when Mike Jorgenson's two-out grounder was bobbled by Allen at first and Larry Biittner followed with a triple off the right field wall.

Philadelphia came back with a run in the bottom of the first when Dave Cash and Greg Luzinski doubled, but Montreal went ahead to stay in the second when Gary Carter beat out an infield single, moved to second on Tim Foli's grounder and scored when third baseman Taylor booted a grounder by winning pitcher Dennis Blair, 4-8.

Pirates 7, Mets 3

NEW YORK (AP) — Manny Sanguillen's single in the ninth inning scored speedy Rennie Stennett with the tie-breaking run, then Bill Robinson drilled a two-run single to cap the four-run burst that gave the Pittsburgh Pirates a 7-3 victory over the New York Mets Saturday.

Odds favor Connors

Connors, Ashe preparing for Monday's showdown

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Jimmy Connors begins defense of his Wimbledon tennis title Monday as the hottest favorite since the days of Rod Laver at his peak.

The dynamic little left-hander from Belleville, Ill., is rated a 5-to-4 bet by the bookies. That means you bet $4 to win $5. The next best odds offered are 10-to-1—against Arthur Ashe of Miami, Fla., and Sweden's 19-year-old wonder boy, Bjorn Borg.

Connors and Ashe have spent two weeks preparing for the big tournament by playing in comparatively lesser events on English grass. By doing that, they by-passed the chance of big prize money in the French championships, which was won by Borg.

But their decision could give the Americans a head start over their rivals.

They called the game lawn tennis in the first place because it was played on grass lawns. Nowadays, the big money-winning pros scarcely hit a ball on grass all year, until Wimbledon comes around.

Borg played devastating tennis to retain his French title in Paris a week ago. But that was on the slow clay surface of the Roland Garros Stadium. He admitted it will be a tough iob adjusting himself to the pace and shallower bounce of grass.

The problems of switching from clay to grass are trickier than they used to be. The European season is shorter and most of the traditional English warm-up tournaments before Wimbledon have disappeared.

The All-England Club seeded 16 players on the basis of a computer ranking list produced by the Association of Tennis Professionals, but took the grass question into account. The seeding worked out with Connors first, followed by 40-year-old Ken Rosewall of Australia, Borg, Guillermo Vilas of Argentina, Ilie Nastase of Romania, and Ashe in sixth place.

But the courts themselves are reported in questionable condition following a cold, wet spring. That could lead to upsets. If there are worn patches on the grass, big servers could slam way to success and make the computerized rankings look silly.

Ashe, 31, is openly making a big play for the Wimbledon title this year. He reached the semi-finals twice—in 1968 and 1969—but has never made the final.

Besides Connors, two former champions are in contention. Stan Smith of Sea Pines, S.C., the winner in 1972, is seeded No. 7 following a decline in form. Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, who won the title in 1973 when most of the top stars were absent, is the No. 12 seed.

Two other former champions, Rod Laver and John Newcombe of Australia, are not competing.

Meanwhile Chris Evert, 20, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., is everybody's favorite to retain the women's crown.

Legal battle

Wimbledon champion Jimmy Connors, left, has sued Arthur Ashe, right, for $5 million, Connors' manager said Saturday. The action was announced as Connors started his final practice session before the tournament against Ashe, Monday in London. (AP Wirephoto)

Billie Jean loses prize

EASTBOURNE, ENGLAND (AP) — Virginia Wade of Britain beat Billie Jean King 7-5, 4-6, 6-4 and captured the first prize of $4,025 in an international women's tournament on the eve of Wimbledon.

Miss Wade rallied from a 5-2 deficit in winning the first set, while Ms. King missed a set point at 5-4.

Ms. King, 51, a five-time winnr of the Wimbledon crown, trailed 4-2 but came back to win the second set.

After serving badly early in the match, she stepped up her offense and scored seven points in the second game of the final set, but Miss Wade held her off and broke through in the following game.

Ms. King's challenge weakened toward the end of the match. She had to struggle to hold her service in the fifth and seventh games.

Connors sues Ashe for libel

LONDON (AP) — Wimbledon champion Jimmy Connors has sued Arthur Ashe for $5.0 million, Connors' manager said Saturday.

The squabble between the two American tennis stars was revealed by Bill Riordan, Connors' manager, as the Wimbledon champion started his final practice session before the big tournament that opens Monday.

"We filed two suits in Indianapolis last week," Riordan said.

The first suit, Riordan added, concerned a letter written by Ashe as president of the Association of Tennis Professionals to 16 players about the captaincy of the U.S. Davis Cup team. Connors alleges that Ashe libeled him in the letter.

The second suit has been filed against Ashe; Donald Dell, the ATP's legal adviser; Bob Briner, the association's secretary, and Jack Kramer, the executive director. It alleges libel in an article written by Briner, Riordan explained.

Connors has another legal suit pending against Kramer, Dell and the Commercial Union Assurance Co., which sponsors the Grand Prix. Meanwhile, Kramer is suing Connors and Riordan for $5.0 million, alleging libel and slander.

Connors is the favorite to win again at Wimbledon. Ashe, who never has won the big title, is seeded No. 6.

Ashe said of the law suit: "This is the first I've heard of the matter."

Richard Evans, European director of ATP, said: "Persgnally, I'm getting very tired of these shabby tactics of throwing out law suits just before Wimbledon.

"Nobody is fool enough to think that this is Connors doing it entirely on his own.

"This is somehing that is putting extra pressure on players at a critical time."

Fans remain despite hardships

MEDINAH, Ill. (AP) — By tradition, golf galleries are the most abused yet most patient and long-suffering in sports, but there should be a cluster on the Purple Heart for the crowd at the U.S. Open this week.

They're taking a beating—physically and financially.

Cauldron heat and humidity. Flash thunderstorms. Tornado alerts. Black mud that oozes through shoes. Exhorbitant prices for parking and food. Broken water mains. Long queues for refreshments and toilets. Constant frustration.

Even the golfers sympathize.

"I don't know when I've been so hot," said Jack Nicklaus. "It's the hottest and most uncomfortable I've been since Washington, D.C., in 1964," said Arnold Palmer. That's when Ken Venturi had to be revived at the mid-day break to win the Open and fans collapsed on the course.

At least, the competitors are spared the hustle the fans get from the independent parking operators and the pushing and shoving they must take from marshals with Gestapo tendencies.

With an absence of adequate parking facilities at the Medinah Club, home owners within two miles of the club are renting space on their front lawns for up to $10. Further away, it is $5 to $7, with another $2 for round-trip shuttle service.

The U.S. Golf Association projected a total attendance of 65,000 and found itself unprepared for a turnout certain to soar over 115,000. This produced a shortage of refreshment stands and portable comfort stations.

The club sold 8,500 season tickets for $45 and $55, with some 4,000 paying the higher figure for club house privileges.

Most of the 24,000 to 50,000 who pour through the gates each day pay $11 for a ticket for the privilege to buy a $2 program, a 75-cent hotdog or $1.50 hamburger, and soft drinks or beer, 75 cents and $1 respectively.

Spectators who shell out $10 for parking and $11 for admittance won't quibble over the prices but they don't like standing in line for 50 minutes to get something to eat.

There were four watering stations on the course originally, not many for 24,000 persons, but the mains broke and only one was usable.

Those wishing protection from the sun could find strategically placed pro shops selling hats for $7, caps for $5, and, in case of rain (there's always rain) $15 for an umbrella and $25 for a nylon rain suit.

A small percentage of the fans stake out spots in the temporary stands erected at the finishing holes, but most must stand 10 and 15 deep around the strategic greens and along the fairways.

The long wait

This is one of the long lines that are taxing the concession stands at Medinah Country Club as an estimated 25,000 people gather to watch the third round of the U. S. Open, Saturday. This stand is selling hamburgers at $1.50 each. (AP Wirephoto)

McTear's record blocked

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — The National AAU Track and Field Committee voted Saturday to withhold approval of Houston McTear's world record-equalling 9.0-second time for the 100-yard dash.

At one of its regular meetings, the committee said it would hold in abeyance any action on McTear's mark which he set at Winter Park, Fla., on May 9.

The time by the 18-year-old high school junior would, if accepted, equal the world record set last year by Ivory Crockett, and McTear's effort appears legitimate in all respects except for one technicality.

An international rule says that where electronic timing mechanisms are available, they should be used and will be considered official for world-record purposes. A committee member said an Accutrack device was available and timed McTear in 9.50.

The committee said it would not approve the mark until it received further information about whether the device was being used and, if so, if it was used properly.

The decision by the committee came over strong objections by Jimmy Carnes, head track coach at the University of Florida, who said, "Are we going to take a kid's record away because they used hand-timed watches?"

McTear was given the 9.0 time by three judges with stopwatches.

NMSU gets former star

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Michael N. Hunter, a former University of Missouri athletic star, has been named athletic director at Northwest Missouri State.

Hunter, 34, has been associate athletic director at California State at Long Beach the past two years.

Wiskoski wrestles Tuesday

Central states title-holder Ed Wiskoski puts his belt on the line Tuesday night in the main event on the professional wrestling show at the Sedalia Community Center. Wiskoski will face challenger Mike George.

The semifinal finds Tank Patton facing Jerry Oates. Ted Oates will face Buddy King in the special match, while Akio Sato faces Oki Shikina.

The opening match is set for 8:50 p.m. Advance tickets are on sale at the Coffee Pot Cafe and Zip's Drug Store.

Preparing for Ali

Bugner not bothered by Ali's old tricks

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali may enter the ring in his title defense against British challenger Joe Bugner without one of his more formidable weapons—the psych.

Ali has not been able to unnerve Bugner to any noticeable degree during preparations for their July 1 bout. The psychological warfare which the champion waged effectively against many earlier opponents does not seem to be making much headway.

Ali has applied the needle in a number of different ways since the fighters arrived in Malaysia. Bugner has shrugged off the wisecracks and victory claims and come up with a few of his own.

Ali has staked out this country's Muslim majority as his own people. He climbed into the ring Friday after praying at a local mosque and said later that the fight should be considered a holy war. Allah assured him victory, said the champion.

"Muhammad Ali brings religion into this sport and that's very wrong," Bugner said after a sparring session Saturday.

"I am not fighting Allah because I could turn around and say that Allah was fighting God. Now make sure Muhammad knows this because I'm going to give him a thrashing for that...I respect Allah, I respect Buddha, I respect everybody."

Ali earlier called the British boxer a "great white hope." Bugnar retorted, "If Muhammad Ali wants to regard me as the great white hope then let him do so."

Ali's personal lexicon of some earlier opponents included Floyd Patterson as "rabbit," George Foreman as "mummy," Ernie Terrell as "octopus," George Chuvalo as "washerwoman" and Sonny Liston as "big ugly bum." Bugner has not been given an insulting nickname.

Ali conceded this week that "I respect him too much."

AAU 800-meter race is an upset

EUGENE, Ore. (AP) — Mark Enyeart became America's latest middle-distance star by beating defending champion Rick Wohlhuter in a stunning upset in the 800-meter run at the National AAU track and field championships Saturday.

Enyeart was timed at 1:44.87, by far his lifetime best, and it kept the Utah State junior undefeated in 12 races at the distance.

The 6-foot, 155 pounder, a converted quarter-miler, handed Wohlhuter his first defeat in a two-lap race in more than two years and added the AAU title to the NCAA championship he won two weeks ago at Provo, Utah.

He did it with a scorching 50.8 first lap and then he held off the ex-Notre Dame athlete in the final 120 meters. His American and meet record set by Wohlhuter last year.

The meet started under clear skies and 70 degree temperatures at the University of Oregon, which has one of the world's faster tracks. A crowd of about 10,300 turned out on the final day of the two-day meet.

Earlier Saturday Al Feuerbach captured his third consecutive AAU shot put title.

Feuerbach, of the Pacific Coast Club of Long Beach, Calif., weighed in at only 242 pounds for this meet because he is in training for the national weightlifting championships Sunday in Culver City, Calif. His winning toss was 68 feet 10¾ inches, his best mark in the month since he began concentrating on weightlifting.

The 6-foot-1 resident of San Jose, Calif., won the 242-pound class in the weightlifting meet a year ago and is attempting to become the first man to make the U.S. National Team in both sports in the same year.

Second Saturday was Hawaii's Terry Albritton, who threw 67-3¾.

Feuerbach won the 1973 AAU title with a throw of 68-1 and the 1974 title with 70-9¾, which stands as the meet record.

No passing

Local riders took awards Friday night

Despite accidents Sedalia motorcyclists were able to capture first place awards in many classes Friday night at the racing at Capital Speedway, Jefferson City.

Buddy Buso won first place in the mini TT class.

Randy Turley was leading in the first seven laps of the 125 class but was involved in an accident and lost the lead.

Tim Foster won the 175 class.

Tom Monsees was taken out of the 250 class after an injury in the second lap.

In the open class first place was taken by Paul Kelner and fifth by Norm Capps.

In the half-mile races Bob Eckles was second in the 125 class. He was leading in the feature but finished fourth.

John Montes took the 250 class and Bill LaPage, Jefferson City, won second place.

In the open class half-mile race Tony Moore finished second in the feature race.

Pocono 500

Johncock passes Foyt in trials

LONG POND, Pa. (AP) — Gordon Johncock roared through four laps at a sizzling 183.281 miles an hour and knocked A.J. Foyt off the pole Saturday for the Pocono 500-mile race June 29 at Pocono International Raceway.

Johncock, starting in the No. 1 spot for the first time in 22 500-mile races he has run, waited until the cool of the late afternoon to make his eye-popping run in a George Bignotti-prepared Wildcat. Earlier, he had experienced mechanical troubles and pulled off of a qualification attempt.

In another surprise, Jerry Grant, a veteran who is competing in his first race here, put his Eagle on the outside of the front row next to Foyt.

Bobby Unser was pushed back to the second row with Johnny Rutherford and Wally Dallenbach. Mike Mosley, Al Unser and Pancho Carter were in the third row.

Rutherford came back in a backup machine in the afternoon after he crashed his No. 1 car earlier in qualifying. He was uninjured. Dallenbach had mechanical troubles earlier in the day but solved them shortly before his second try.

Thirty cars qualified for the 33-car field Saturday, with several others scheduled to make attempts Sunday during the final day of time trials.

Foyt won the pole position in the two other 500-mile Indianpolis-style races this season. Although he has won the 500-milers at Ontario, Calif., Indianapolis and Pocono, he has yet to claim Indy racing's Triple Crown in the same year. He trails Bobby Unser in the points battle this year.

Unser, the pole winner here last year with a speed of 182.500 miles per hour, held the pole for several hours until Foyt's four-lap test around the 2½-mile tri-oval at 182.778 m.p.h. Unser averaged 181.708 m.p.h.

"We're just not handling right. We just haven't got the bugs out of it," Foyt said of his new Coyote. "We feel there's a couple of miles per hour left in the car."

Johncock and Dallenbach broke engines in early attempts, when conditions would have been ideal. Rugherford said his ill-fated run would have been good enough to challenge for the No. 1 starting spot.

What good is a guarantee on the muffler when your tailpipe goes?
There's more to an exhaust system than a muffler. There's a tailpipe, exhaust pipe, clamps and hangers. And statistics tell us that the tailpipe often goes before the muffler.
Yet most of the people who repair exhaust systems only give a lifetime guarantee on their mufflers. If you have to buy a tailpipe and it goes, guess who pays? And you could pay as much as $35.
That's not the case at your Scotti Muffler Center. At Scotti, we guarantee any and every part of the exhaust system we install. Pipes, muffler, you name it. And we'll replace them free for as long as you own your car.
Yet with all this we charge about the same as places with less of a guarantee. So at Scotti you get off a lot cheaper in the long run.

Rental of art popular

By C. G. McDANIEL
Associated Press Writer

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Evanston public Library's rent-a-picture service is so popular that users reserve their favorites in advance, just as they do popular books.

The library has a collection of 147 framed fine-art reproductions and 43 replicas of small pieces of sculpture.

Kenneth L. Knapp, head of the library's art, music and film collection, said in an interview that art rental services have become common in recent years in American libraries.

The Evanston library has reciprocal arrangements with a number of Chicago's other North Shore suburbs, so that residents of nearby towns and Chicago may use their towns' library cards to borrow from the Evanston collection.

Catalogs include small pictures and descriptions of the prints and sculpture available. The works are also listed in the library's general catalog, so that a reader studying a particular artist might borrow a reproduction of that artist's work.

Last year, 1,039 loans were made from the print collection, and 140 from the sculpture collection.

Knapp said the library had been adding new works over the past four or five years, but had reached the limits of its storage capacity so no new ones were added in 1974.

Some prints are in great demand and if they are out when borrowers ask for them the library reserves them when the prints are returned.

Most popular, Knapp said, are a still life by Lydia Kemeny called "The Red Chair" and a seascape called "Quiet Anchorage" by Bria.

The collection also includes many of the big names in art — Braque, Chagall, Klee, Monet, Renoir, Calder, Gauguin, Matisse, Rembrandt and others.

"Everything by Monet has been out for months," Knapp said. This is the result of a major exhibition of his work at the Art Institute of Chicago, he explained.

The sculpture reproductions are largely from classical antiquity and include animal figures as well as humans.

Students at Northwestern University in Evanston and visiting faculty members are big users of the collection, Knapp said.

The students like to have something to liven up their "bare, hospital green rooms," and the visiting faculty likewise want decorative pieces for their temporary homes.

Retirement homes have also come to be major users of the collection, he said.

No picture has been lost or damaged in the four or five years the library has had the service, the librarian said.

Famous clown has complaint about son

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Emmett Kelley, known to generations of circus-goers as "Weary Willie," the everpatient clown in the face of comical adversity, says his son is stealing his act.

The 76-year-old Kelly says he never gave 50-year-old Emmett Jr. permission to use the makeup and gags the elder clown has been using for more than 50 years.

"Mostly I resent the stuff they have been putting out saying I'm retired," Kelly said Friday. "I want the public to know I'm not retired."

Kelly Jr. is appearing in the Chicago area billed as a "contemporary version of Weary Willie," and advertising for his act refers to Kelly Sr. as "retired and living in Florida."

Claims competition is a healthy thing

SANTA FE, N.M. (AP) — Kathleen Kennedy Townsend, eldest daughter of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, says athletic competition among retarded children "gives them a feeling of worth."

Mrs. Townsend, 23, is on the staff of the Human Rights Commission office here and is working with the Kennedy Special Olympics competition in New Mexico.

"It's important for the kids just to compete, to get out there and try," Mrs. Townsend said Friday. "We tell them, 'You can do it.'"

Japanese women adjust

By LEONARD BOASBERG

KYOTO (NEA) — "My name is Umeko," she says, sitting beside you.

It means "Plum Child," and she's a hostess in a "naito kurabbu" called The Sisters, in Kyoto, the old capital of Japan.

If you'd been listening to the public address system in the crowded, cavernous room, you'd have heard her summoned — "Umeko, Table 66."

"May I know your name?"

The Sisters is located on the celebrated Kamo River, which flows through the center of Kyoto. Go up half a block past the Minamiza Theater, cross the Shijo Bridge and turn to the right and you're on a narrow street called Ponto-Cho. If you're looking for a certain kind of action, that's where it's at — there or a few blocks to the southeast in Gion.

At The Sisters, you get conversation. Umeko keeps the drinks flowing (and the more you drink, the more she earns). She dances with you, to the music of a Japanese rock band. She fusses over you and tells you how skillfully you speak Japanese even if you only speak a few words. But at 11 p.m., when The Sisters closes up, she walks to the door with you and, bowing, bids you "sayonara."

Umeko is 23. She was born on a small farm not too far from Kyoto. Until a year or so ago she worked in an office. Now she earns twice as much as then, an average of 100,000 yen a month — about $340. Her family, back on the farm, doesn't know she works at The Sisters, she says.

And if they did?

"They would be unhappy."

Umeko is not a geisha, that unique (and getting uniquer) Japanese entertainer, trained from childhood in the arts of singing, dancing, and pleasing men. She is not a joro, a prostitute. She is a hostess, one of 60 at The Sisters, and one of an estimated 500,000 in large nightclubs and small bars in Japan today.

Maybe she would have drifted to The Sisters even if it hadn't been for the combination of recession and inflation that currently grips Japan. Maybe not. For many Japanese women, in any case, there is not too much choice.

"Of course they are not working willingly," says Hatako Shimizu, the motherly secretary general of the Japanese Housewives Association.

But, she points out, with part time jobs, especially for women, falling off while prices soar, Japanese women can go back to the farm, if that's where they're from, or go back to their homes — or go into the bars and nightclubs.

Mrs. Shimizu puts the blame on the government in two ways. One is the long-standing policy of permitting businessmen to deduct the costs of entertaining clients from their taxes.

The other is the economic policies of the Japanese government under the Liberal Democratic (conservative) party. Democratic (conservative) now headed by Premier Takeo Miki.

Partly as a result of the four-fold increase in the price of oil, Japan last year ran the highest inflation rate of any industrialized nation — 25 per cent, more than twice the U.S. rate.

To wring inflation out of the economy, the government has tightened money, curbed spending and encouraged business and industry to resist organized labor's demands for catch-up raises.

The policies have had some success in slackening the rate of inflation — economists predict about 15 per cent this year — but at the cost of the first decline in gross national product since World War II: an unprecedented number of small business bankruptcies, and an unprecedented rate of unemployment — about a million jobless out of Japan's work force of 52 million.

Mizuo Takahara, deputy editor of one of Japan's leading national daily newspapers with offices in Tokyo, can't afford to live there. Instead, he lives in the suburbs of Yokohama, an hour and 10 minutes' commute in the morning, an hour and a half in the evening. His house cost 13 million yen, about $45,000 and he has a 9 per cent, 25-year loan.

"It's inconvenient to live in a faraway place like that," he said, but "shikata ga nai" — no help for it.

Two years ago, Takahara returned from four years in Washington as his newspaper's correspondent and bought a four-cylinder Toyota. His wife uses the car for shopping and for taking their two daughters to ballet school.

"My family had to give up trips to hot springs resorts. We gave up skiing and ice-skating." His wife complains about the price of food, which now costs 30 to 40 per cent more than a year ago, he says. Lunch at a small restaurant near his office has almost doubled in price.

"Beef is very expensive in Japan. Before we returned from the United States, I recommended to my wife and my two daughters that they eat as much beef as they can eat so that they would hate beef."

For Akiko Okayama, the crunch has been inconvenient but not all that serious. She earns the equivalent of $500 a month working for an airline in customer service. Last year, her salary was increased about 30 per cent, along with salaries of other organized workers in Japan. Under the Japanese tradition of "lifetime employment," she will keep her job unless she gets married and decides to stay home and raise children.

Born 26 years ago in Tokyo, she lives there with her parents and three brothers.

Sitting in a coffee shop in Tokyo's swinging Akasaka district, a Degas print on the wall, melancholy Japanese music alternating with modern folksongs playing in the background, she talks about life in Tokyo.

Not a bad place to live, she says. As a matter of fact, though she'd like to travel, she can't see herself living anywhere else. Sure, it's crowded and expensive, but there are things to do — movies, museums, boyfriends to go out with.

Next years, says Akiko Okayama, she will get married. Why next year? "Well, I will be 27, and it's time." As a matter of fact, her parents have been trying to make arrangements. They've introduced her to three — or was it four? — young men. "But I didn't like them. When I marry, it must be for love."

What does she expect in her husband-to-be?

"First, he must have good prospects. Second, he must have brains. Third, he must have a warm heart."

Arbitration order in contract battle

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A Superior Court judge has ordered Sally Struthers' contract dispute with the makers of "All in the Family" submitted to arbitration.

Miss Struthers, who plays Archie Bunker's daughter, Gloria, in the television series, was sued by Tandem Productions for breach of contract after she allegedly refused to appear in next season's shows.

Court records show that her starting salary of $750 a show was increased each year and was to be $6,000 a show in the coming season.

Brother gets help of sisters

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Two British sisters have traveled 3,400 miles to try to save the life of a brother they haven't seen in 12 years. One will give him a kidney and the other will be a standby.

"I sure am lucky," said Charles Gaster, 50, as he beamed and hugged his sisters upon their arrival Friday night.

For nearly two years, Gaster kept his kidney disease a secret from his sisters, Vera Jenner, 52, and Audrey Taffe, 49, of Kent, England.

But they became suspicious of band-aids they noticed in pictures he sent home, learned the marks were due to treatment on a kidney machine and soon decided on a trans-Atlantic kidney transport.

Before the sisters were approved as donors, tissue samples were taken in England, and delivered to an Orlando hospital by an airline pilot. The sisters said they did not learn whose kidney had been chosen until they arrived in Orlando.

So far, doctors have decided Mrs. Jenner's kidney is the better match for Gaster. The operation is set July 3 at Florida Hospital.

"In case something should happen and Vera's kidney can't be used, then they'd both be here," said Gaster, who suffers from nephritis, a toxic infection that results in kidney failure.

"We've always been close and kept in contact. Their decision came as a surprise, although I know if they had known about it sooner, they'd have done it sooner.

"I just didn't want too many people worried about it. I thought it would be impossible to get them out here financially, but we managed to rake the money together — our children provided the money."

Gaster left England 17 years ago to work for a British motor company in Florida and Louisiana before opening a service station in DeLand seven years ago.

End of controls on prices Ford's goal

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford, disappointed at a House-passed energy bill, intends to submit to Congress soon his plan to decontrol the price of domestic crude oil, Press Secretary Ron Nessen reports.

But Ford is reserving judgment on whether to impose a third $1-per-barrel tariff on imported oil until he sees what energy action is taken by the Senate, Nessen said Friday.

Nessen said the President is willing to work with Congress on an energy bill but feels the measure passed by the House Thursday "is a piece of paper that just doesn't get there."

He said Ford still believes the United States must free itself from dependence on foreign oil by 1985 so that foreign producers cannot "blackmail or hold the United States hostage by raising the price at their own whim or by cutting off supplies at their own whim."

He said that to do this Congress must enact a program that will reduce oil consumption and spur development of alternative energy sources.

The bill passed by the House "simply doesn't get anywhere near those goals ... it abandoned these goals," Nessen said.

He said it is now up to the Senate "to start again, to pass a bill that will reach the goals set by the President."

The press secretary said Ford intends to submit a program to Congress soon to decontrol the price of domestic crude oil as a means of encouraging producers to explore for new sources of oil.

About three-fifths of U.S.-produced oil is now subject to price controls and is selling at about $5.25 a barrel. Other oil, including foreign oil, is selling at more than $10 a barrel.

Nessen said Ford took what administrative action he could to reduce oil consumption by raising the import tariff on oil by $2 a barrel in two steps. In announcing that action last January, Ford said he intended to raise the tariff a total of $3, but Nessen said Friday that Ford will not add the final dollar until he sees what the Senate does.

The House passed the energy bill Thursday but only after deleting a three-cent to 23-cent increase in the gasoline tax, the key conservation section.

Old theatre's preservation is closer now

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The 75-year-old Folly Theater, which has run the gamut of entertainment from repertory drama through vaudeville and burlesque to striptease and porn films, is $60,000 nearer preservation today.

A check for that amount was turned over Friday to Mrs. Joan Dillon, executive vice president of the Performing Arts Foundation, which still needs another $100,000 to save the old showplace from the wrecker's ball. The check was a federal grant from the Department of Interior.

The civic drive led by Mrs. Dillon seeks to buy the building and, at the estimated cost of $2 million, restore the theater as a historical landmark.

Thumbs down on jobless pay for teachers

Prohibiting teachers from drawing unemployment pay during the summer months drew support from 67 per cent of the readers who answered last Sunday's Democrat-Capital survey. Fifteen responses were received.

Readers were asked: "President Ford has signed legislation exempting teachers from receiving unemployment benefits this summer. Up until then, teachers over the nation, and locally, had filed for the benefits, claiming them as their due. Do you favor the President's action?"

An unsigned letter from a reader who did not like the move said, "What is the difference between the teacher laid off for nine weeks and the factory or construction worker laid off for an equal length of time? It's acceptable for these workers who in many cases are higher paid than the teacher, yet the teacher who has in most cases spent at least five years in college and $20,000 in preparation to accept this compensation is an unprofessional no-no. Of course the teacher's tax money is gladly accepted annually to pay for these benefits and the myriad other federal programs...

"This also raises the question as to where the money will go that was already available for this compensation. Some had already received it. Will it now be applied to some new bureaucracy or highly political federal program? It seems as though most of those who are philosophically opposed to the teacher receiving the compensation are at the same time either employed by federal money or are eligible to receive it should they be laid off in the future..." the letter said.

Another unsigned letter said, "To the credit of teachers, as a whole, only a small percentage filed for benefits. Of course, none should have filed. Seems to me we should take a second (or third or fourth) look at the make-up of the Congress which made this shameful filing possible. Glad it is over."

A reader who asked not to be identified said, "I don't blame our teachers, I blame our legislators on the national level. It seems that the more taxes the legislators can pile up on the people, the more popular they are!"

Richard A. Schreck, 502 Wilkerson, wrote, "I fail to see why educators are not considered unemployed during the summer months, for they too are forced to compete for available jobs to meet expenses. Instead of receiving compensation like others for which employment is available, they are now penalized for attaining a position in the American school system which traditionally is held for nine months."

A letter signed "A thankful parent" said, "Teachers should receive unemployment during the summer months if they are unemployed. Most teachers are paid for nine or 10 months per year. Some think ahead and save by dividing their already meager salaries into 12 checks instead of taking a full pay during the months they are working. Teachers, as do builders and house painters, know they will be laid off during several months of the year. This still doesn't scare them off. Everyone knows teachers work hard and are underpaid. Why try to do them out of their just due? Let them claim unemployment..."

One brief note said, "This was the prize boner! No wonder we're head-over-heels in debt." And another said, "Teachers are as greedy as the city firemen."

DEMOCRAT- CAPITAL SURVEY

QUESTION — In the wake of South Vietnam's fall, as well as that of Cambodia and Laos, there is some concern that Communist North Korea might again invade South Korea, as it did in 1950. If this happened, would you favor the use of U.S. troops again in South Korea?

Mafia is the name of a secret Sicilian terrorist society which began in the 1600s as an organization to combat corruption and tyranny in the Kingdom of the Two Sicilies.

Local group plans to work for Hearnes

An independent voters-for-Hearnes group, organized to promote the candidacy of Warren Hearnes for the Democratic nomination for the U.S. Senate in 1976, has been formed locally, according to Bill Bilyeu, 3002 Southwest Boulevard.

Bilyeu said the group has been formed to provide a forum for persons "from all parties or from no party" to support the former Missouri governor in his Senate race.

Bilyeu served seven years as a member of the Missouri Boat Commission under Hearnes and said, "I really appreciate the fact that Warren Hearnes let us go about developing the best Boat Commission in the country without hindering our efforts. I feel he would be by far the outstanding candidate."

Bilyeu's daughter, Mrs. Lynn Webb, is acting president of the group. "As soon as we get better organized, we're going to elect officers and get people involved," she said. "We'll be contacting people all over this area and ask their support for a man who truly deserves it."

New traffic controls set for Sedalia

Contracts will be let this fall for several local traffic improvement projects to be undertaken next year, it was announced Friday by Jerry Smith, Kansas City, district survey and planning engineer for the Missouri State Highway Department.

Smith informed the city of the developments in a letter to Mayor Jerry Jones. Many of the projects involve the creation of left turn lanes. Only one new left turn lane, at Third and Limit, will involve widening of the intersection.

The projects include modification of traffic signals at Broadway and Engineer and Broadway and Ohio by installing larger traffic light-faces; and formation of left turn lanes at the junction of Broadway and State Fair Blvd. and installation of traffic signals at that location.

Other projects include a new left turn lane and installation of traffic signs at Thompson Boulevard and Highway 50; widening of the Third and Limit intersection to provide left turn lanes and installation of signals; formation of left turn lanes for east and west traffic at 16th and Limit and modification of existing signals to account for the new lanes; and new left turn lanes and installation of traffic signals at the intersection of Route B and south Limit near the Holiday Inn.

No cost estimate was given for the projects. Smith explained the decision to approve the projects was made by the highway department after various traffic studies conducted in recent years. He said work on the project will begin next May and will probably be completed by October.

Service stations keep longer hours

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A growing number of service stations are staying open longer these days, switching back to pre-embargo schedules at the request of oil companies urging them to sell more gasoline.

An Associated Press spot check showed only a few cases of intense pressure being applied to dealers to stay open in the evening and on weekends. Most dealers said the oil companies simply asked them to keep selling longer.

Spokesmen for several companies said they were only asking that dealers live up to signed contracts.

The Senate passed and sent to the House on Friday a bill limiting the right of petroleum distributors to cancel franchise agreements with dealers. Distributors would be allowed to cancel a contract only if the dealer failed to comply substantially with his contract or if the distributor quit the petroleum business altogether.

The AP spot check showed the situation varied from station to station, and there was no clear pattern of pressure by any particular company.

The AP questioned a Gulf dealer, a Texaco dealer and a Sunoco dealer in Rhode Island, but only the Sunoco dealer, who did not want his name used, redported any pressure. "All they (the oil companies) want to do is sell more gasoline," he added.

The Gulf dealer, Pat Augiello of Providence, and the Texaco dealer, Roger Langlais of West Warwick, had a different response.

"There is no pressure to sell more," Augiello said. Langlais agreed, and added: "They haven't been pushing the gasoline."

There have been recent warnings of a possible gasoline shortage this summer because of declining stockpiles and production. The Federal Energy Administration has said it was checking supply reports and, if necessary, would use its authority to increase production of gasoline since supplies of crude oil to manufacture the fuel are adequate.

Major stations contacted in Chicago reported no pressure. They said their sales were off because of the price difference between the major brands and the independents.

"We sit around and play poker. The price is too high," said one station operator.

Prison term for suspected racket figure

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A man believed to have been the head of a $2,000-a-day numbers racket here has been sentenced to four years in prison by U.S. District Judge James H. Meredith.

Samuel Swofford Jr., 56, was found guilty June 12 of conspiracy to violate federal laws and of operating an illegal gambling business. He was sentenced Friday.

Swofford was the organizer of the numbers racket and collected 50 per cent of the proceeds, but took no active part in the business, according to federal authorities.

Seven other persons charged in connection with the racket were tried and sentenced last year.

FOR ALAN ALDA

When did you first want to be a writer?—T.S., Ventura, Calif. (Editor's note: Alda developed the written concept of the TV show "We'll Get By.")

● When I was eight, I wanted to write books like those I was reading—books like "Top Horse at Crescent Ranch"! My dad and my teachers encouraged me. In fact, at school, I used to get out of book reports by writing little plays and things. I think it was good because it developed my writing ability and gave me a chance to get a feedback on it. For example, I would write the school Thanksgiving play. In exchange for that, I wouldn't have to do some of the boring work I would otherwise have had to do. I found it much easier to write a 60-page play than a 25-page term paper. I got higher marks, too, because instead of writing a paper on some historical subject, I put all the facts in play form.

FOR ETHEL MERMAN

Out of your long career, what moment do you cherish the most?—P.L., Asbury Park, N.J.

● It's got to be when the final curtain came down the opening night of "I Got Rhythm," October 13, 1930. The Broadway musical starred Ginger Rogers, and I made my stage debut in a featured role. I don't mean to boast, but I brought the house down when I sang. Until I stepped onstage that night, then my name didn't mean a thing. But when I left it after the show, my career had begun.

FOR SEN. WILLIAM PROXMIRE (D-Wis.)

For 20 years, the military-industrial complex has run the U.S. to suit itself. Can Congress change that?—Robert Barney, San Antonio, Texas

● I agree that the military has too much relative power. But my main objection is that it is soft and wasteful. What we need is a lean, tough, first-rate fighting force. But the military would rather keep its servants, commissary privileges and the overruns on the fancy gold-plated weapons. We could have a much stronger military for the same money, or as much military strength at far less cost.

FOR MEL BROOKS, actor and producer

Why didn't you appear in your movie "Young Frankenstein," as you did in others such as "Blazing Saddles"?—John Keepers, Pomona, Calif.

● There was only one part that I was right for in "Young Frankenstein" and that was Igor. Then, along came Marty Feldman and he mesmerized me with those eyes. Let's face it, he was born to play Igor. But thank you for the inquiry.

FOR VALERINE PERRINE, star of "Lenny"

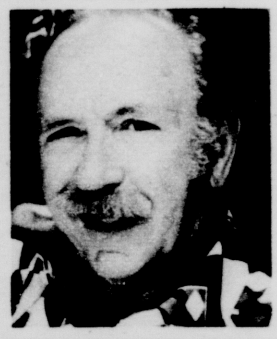
How do you like people to pronounce your name?—David Bass, Howell, N.J.

● Per-RINE—like in "wine."

FOR KAY ISELIN GILMAN, sportswriter and author

Does Joe Namath have the most natural star presence of any person you have interviewed?—J.B., Amherst, N.Y.

● No. Evel Knievel has the most natural star presence of any person I've interviewed. He also spouts the best copy.



FOR JACK ALBERTSON, star of "Chico and the Man"

As a garage owner on your show, how much do you know about cars?—S.G., Texarkana, Texas

● One day my daughter and I were driving to the NBC studios and got a flat across from the Hollywood Bowl. I pulled off on the sidewalk and headed for the nearest phone. I told NBC to pick us up. While I was away, another driver—seeing my daughter stranded—offered to help. At that point, I came back. The man recognized me and said with great disbelief: "You have a garage, and you can't fix a flat!?"

FOR HAROLD "RED" GRANGE, all-time football great

How do you think you would do in present-day football? —T. J. McInerney, New Hyde Park, N.Y.

● I think I would fare okay. I weighed about 190 and was slightly over six feet. My time in the 100 was 9.7 seconds. I played both defense and offense. I liked to play, and I was not prone to injuries.

FOR BURT REYNOLDS

I enjoyed your movie "The Longest Yard." Had you ever played football before, and did you do your own scenes in the movie?—Mrs. Al Kuzio, Jr., Whitesboro, N.Y.

● I was an All-State and All-Southern halfback for Florida State University and was headed for a pro football career until a near-fatal automobile accident ended my athletic dreams. Yes, I did all of my own football scenes in "The Longest Yard."

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Was that a real romance between Liberace and Julie Budd? —B.B., Greensburg, Pa.

● About five years ago, when she was 16, singer Julie Budd was Liberace's costar in Las Vegas. She was depressed because she had no escort for Elvis Presley's opening at the International Hotel. Herb Bernstein, her manager, couldn't accompany her, but came up with this solution instead: "Liberace is going, and I'll ask him if he'll take you." He readily agreed: "Of course, she's like my kid sister." The miserable teenager got a new lease on life at the thought of seeing her idol's first night. Off went Liberace and Julie, arm-in-arm. A few months later, a scandal magazine came out with a special report of the "big romance" between them. Liberace was highly amused at the incident, but Julie was mortified. "M'gosh," she said, "I still call him Mister Liberace."

A Look Behind

- What's in It for Us
- What's in It for Russia
- What's in It for Man's Future in Space

It was early summer, 1969. Astronaut Frank Borman, his wife and sons were winding up a tour of Russia. During the long flight back to Moscow, Borman turned to his hosts, Soviet cosmonaut Ghermain Titov and Dr. Boris Petrov, chairman of the USSR Academy of Sciences Committee on Manned Space Flight, and made a momentous proposal: that the U.S. and the USSR fly a manned mission together.

In a way, Borman's trip through Russia (he was the first U.S. astronaut ever so honored) marked the end of the first decade of heated space competition. The Russians, after vowing to beat us to the moon, now knew they had lost, after the repeated test failures of their giant moon rocket. What they did not know for sure was that the U.S. knew of the failures. The decks had already been cleared for Neil Armstrong and Buzz Aldrin of Apollo 11 to perform the first manned landing two months later. Before leaving the United States, Borman had gotten the approval of Henry Kissinger and the White House to approach the Russians. As commander of Apollo 8, Borman had led the U.S. team that daringly flew the first spacecraft to circle the moon six months ahead of schedule, when it looked as though the Russians were about to beat us.

"From the Russians' point of view, the flight soothes their feelings after having lost the lunar race. It enables them to convince the world that they're on a par with U.S. technology—which they are not."

Borman felt then, as he does now, that cooperation in space might lead to détente on earth. After the initial agreements, the joint space flight, christened ASTP—for Apollo-Soyuz Test Project—was approved.

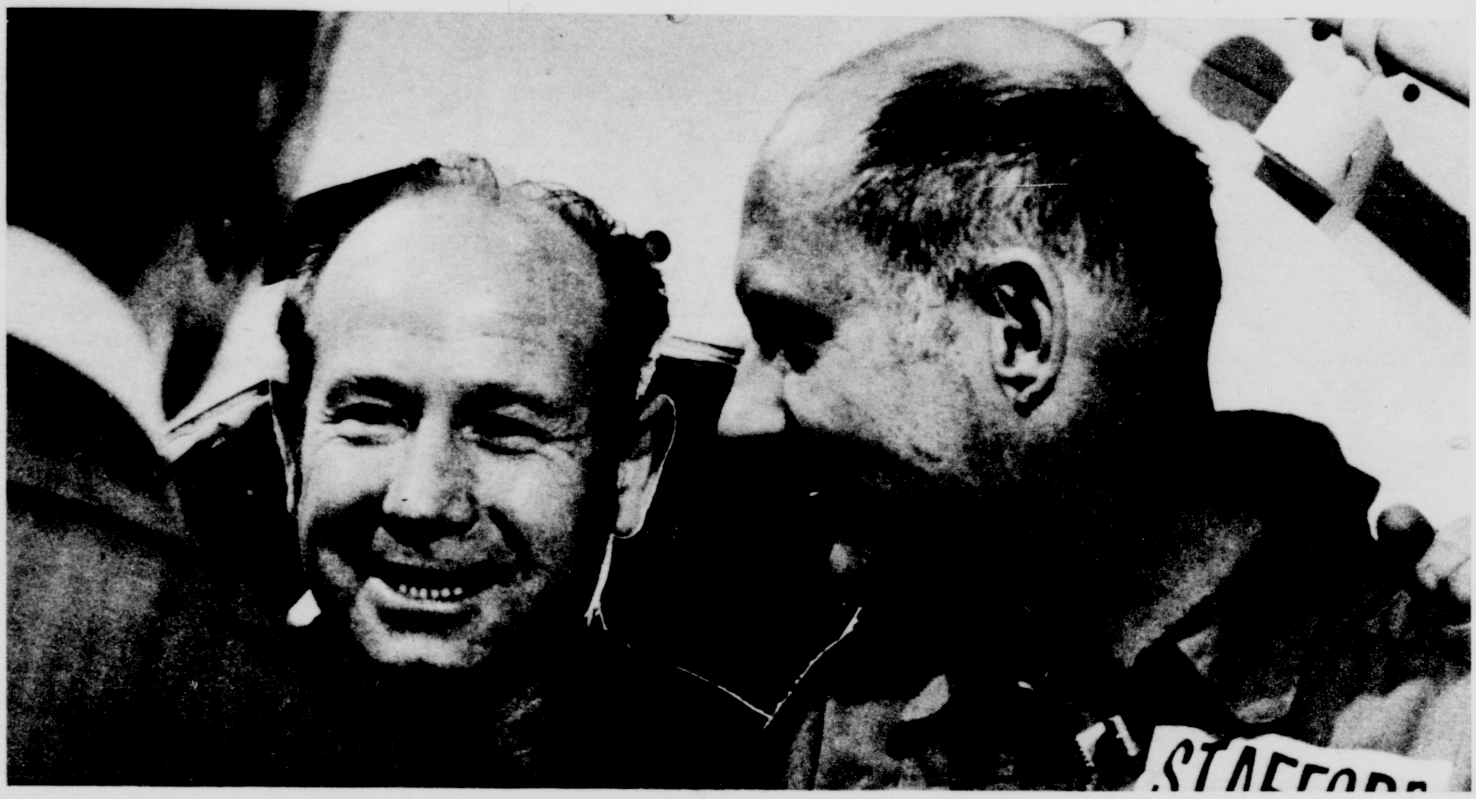
The flight has much in it for both nations. It enables NASA to fly another Apollo mission at minimal expense—since the Saturn rocket and Apollo spacecraft are leftovers from the moon program—thus keeping launch teams and astronauts together for the forthcoming U.S. space shuttle in the late '70's and early '80's. The total cost to the U.S. is about $175,000,000—of which some $25,000,000 is for the docking module built by the U.S. that will link Soyuz and Apollo in orbit. By combining engineering ideas, a better docking adapter has been built than either the U.S. or Russia had before. The adapter makes rescue a possibility, not just a pipe dream, should astronauts of any nation get trapped in orbit on future space flights.

From the Russians' point of view, the flight soothes their feelings after having lost the lunar race. It enables them to convince the world that they're on a par with U.S. technology—which they are not. They're at least a decade behind in boosters and spacecraft. As for those who feel the U.S. is giving away technological secrets—nonsense! Apollo is 15-year-old technology. The Russians may get some computer-software tricks, but nothing they could not have purchased overtly or covertly.

The real triumph of ASTP is the spirit of cooperation that has risen above language and technological differences. The five crew members—U.S. commander Tom Stafford, 44, a veteran of three previous flights; rookie Vance Brand, 44; and Deke Slayton, 51, one of the original seven Mercury astronauts—and the two-man Soviet crew—Col. Aleksei Leonov, 41, the world's first space walker in 1965; and his flight engineer, Valery Kubasov—have worked together for the past three years. The men have slaved four hours a day learning each other's language. Several times a year, the crews and scores of technicians from both nations

The U.S.-Soviet Space Flight

By Jules Bergman
ABC News Science Editor



Aleksei Leonov from the Soviet Union and Tom Stafford from the United States will meet next in space—orbiting above their countries' differences and (hopefully) adding a new dimension to the concept of détente.

have trained at NASA's Johnson Space Center in Houston or at Star City, 25 miles east of Moscow.

The ASTP agreement was negotiated during the Soyuz 11 disaster. That's when, you may remember, three cosmonauts died on reentry after 23 days aboard the Salyut space station. U.S. skepticism grew about Soviet technical ability. But the Soviets solved the hatch-seal problem that had caused the tragedy and, to prove it, flew three unmanned and three manned flights.

The actual flight plan calls for Soyuz to be launched at 8:20 a.m. on Tuesday, July 15, followed at 3:50 p.m. by Apollo. Two days later, Apollo will pull up behind Soyuz and dock. Apollo carries the linking docking module beneath it, where the lunar module used to be stored. Soyuz is the passive target and Apollo does the active engine "burns" (the U.S. spacecraft carries far more maneuvering fuel and better radar). U.S. and Soviet ground stations and control centers will be tied together around the world via the U.S. ATS-6 satellite, which will also relay hours of onboard television back to Russia and the U.S.

The spacecraft will remain docked for two days, during which time the crews will visit each other's vehicle. One crewman from each nation will always be aboard his own ship. The crews will perform five joint scientific experiments, and the Apollo crew will do 22 more alone.

The joint in-flight rules are simple: The Russians will always talk English to the Americans, the Americans will always speak Russian to the Soviets. Gauges and instruments on Apollo are labeled in both languages.

Soviet obsession with secrecy nearly torpedoed the mission a few months ago. Tom Stafford had insisted that his crew see the Soviet rocket and the Soyuz spacecraft at Tyuratam, the Russian Cape Canaveral. Since the Russians also launch ICBM's there, they refused on the grounds of military secrecy. Stafford persisted, declaring, "If we don't see it, we don't fly it." The Russians gave in, and in late April the U.S. primary and backup crews, with no cameras allowed, were taken through Tyuratam. (The Russians, by the way, have always called Tyuratam by the name of Baikonur, a small city 135 miles away. They seemed to think this would throw the U.S. off about where their spaceport actually is. In reality, via reconnaissance satellites and electronic wizardry, the U.S. has known about Tyuratam for 15 years.)

When you sit inside the tiny Soyuz spacecraft, as this reporter did recently, you get a new appreciation of the courage of Soviet pilots. It is cramped and, by U.S. standards, primitive in its controls. It works well most of the time, but the Russians have lost four men returning from orbit on two Soyuz flights. The U.S. has lost none.

All things considered, Apollo is by far the more versatile and reliable spacecraft. But it was built for the far more dangerous, complex lunar mission, where no one could help if trouble developed. U.S. astronauts consider Soyuz more or less adequate for short earth-orbital missions, but they don't exactly get excited about launching in it. Ironically, the recent failure of Soyuz 18 was the best verification of Soyuz safety. The launch booster failed to achieve orbital velocity and the Soyuz was aborted, using its escape tower. The crew landed safely 1,000 miles down range from Tyuratam and only a few hundred miles from China. Col. Anatoly Filipchenko, the ASTP backup commander who flew the Soyuz 17 rehearsal mission, told me at Star City that this was the first time the escape tower had been tested, and the Soviet cosmonauts were elated that it worked perfectly.

Sitting on a shelf in Aleksei Leonov's apartment in Star City is a half-empty bottle of vodka that all five pilots of the ASTP mission drank from, sealed, and then signed their names on the label. That was at their farewell evening together a few months ago—their last until they meet in space—and they vowed to finish the vodka after returning from the ASTP flight in late July.

There may be problems on the mission that no one can predict—but camaraderie and the desire to succeed will not be among them. FW

Wives in Space? What Apollo-Soyuz May Lead To...

The U.S. and the USSR are already holding preliminary talks on possible follow-up missions. The avowed goal is possible joint manned flights in which America's space shuttle would ferry Soviet or joint crews up to the Soviet Salyut space station in the early '80's. Since the U.S. has no space station planned, the idea has some attraction. America's Skylab, still in orbit, might be revisited by a joint crew. More likely would be missions to an advanced Soviet space station

Prelude to the Impossible Journey: The first logical planetary goal looks like Mars, depending on what America's two unmanned Viking spacecraft find if they make it to the red planet next July 4.

The manned mission to Mars would be longer, more dangerous and more expensive than any flight yet attempted: a two-year round-trip journey at the best current chemical-rocket speeds, traversing more than 500 million miles through space each way. So long and dangerous a flight would be likely to require a mixed crew of husband and wife astronauts, at least one of them a physician. Early thoughts call for a five or six person crew. Cost: The latest projection is so huge a figure that no single nation could afford it. The Mars mission, if ever deemed worthwhile, would have to be an international flight.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

What Your Hair Says About You

True or False: What a man's hair length tells you about him depends as much on your haircut as his. (See number 3)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. The length of a man's hair tells a lot about his attitude, outlook and general personality.

2. The all-important first impression a man makes on people depends to a large extent on whether he's a blond, brunet or redhead.

3. What a man's hair length tells you about him depends as much on your haircut as his.

4. Nervousness or emotional conflict causes some people to literally "tear their hair."

ANSWERS

1. True. Investigators at Utah State University divided college men into two groups: those with hair above their shoulders and those with hair below their shoulders. All were subjected to a battery of standard personality tests. Marked differences in character, outlook and general attitude were found between the two groups. The hair-above-the-shoulders students were much more interested in the opinions and ideas of others, from whom they felt they could learn, and sought to profit by the examples of the successful and to avoid the mistakes of the failures. They were inclined to adjust and adapt to conditions rather than to rock the boat. Students in the hair-below-the-shoulders group "placed significantly greater value on independence, and significantly less value on conformity and recognition. They were somewhat isolated from others and not as strongly influenced by their authority." They were also disinterested in any rewards that might threaten or compromise their independence.

2. True—according to psychological studies conducted by a team of investigators on men and women students at two Midwestern colleges. Subjects were shown colored slides of male faces of various types. Each facial type was shown first with blond hair, next with dark, then as a redhead. Findings: Blonds scored the highest ratings in terms of such valued attributes as kindness, compassion and consideration for others. The same faces when depicted with dark hair were judged superior in terms of being vigorous, tough-minded men of action. Contrary to expectations, the redheaded models impressed the subjects less favorably than the blonds or brunets.

3. True. A team of behavioral specialists at the University of Arizona made an interesting psychological experiment. A long-haired subject was introduced to a class that included long- and short-haired students. They were told that "the examiners wished to study how people can 'infer,' or estimate, patterns of behavioral traits and of abnormal behavior from very brief encounters . . . and that the subject—'Bill'—had volunteered to assist, since recently 'he spent some time in a psychiatric ward.'" "Bill" read a brief neutral statement about himself and then was allowed to depart. He was then given a short haircut, and the experiment was conducted again with classes of long- and short-haired students. Results: The short-haired students rated the long-haired "Bill" as the sickest—the most likely to be schizophrenic, anxiety-ridden, paranoid, etc. On the other hand, members of the classes with long hair judged the short-haired "Bill" the sickest.

4. True. When feeling distraught or frustrated, some people will absently pluck hair after hair from their head without realizing what they are doing. Specialists in human behavior term this penchant for hair-plucking trichotillomania. It is almost like nail-biting. Methods of breaking the habit run a gamut that includes greasing the hair so the person can't get a grip on it, offering rewards, etc. A psychological study at the University of Manitoba indicates that this hair-removing habit can be effectively coped with if the person is made acutely aware of what he is doing. This was done by instructing the subject to chart the number of hairs pulled daily for seven days, and to save them and place them in envelopes daily. Purpose: To give the subject immediate and emphatic feedback on his behavior.

SHIRLEY MACLAINE:

"Some People Call It Cynicism—I Call It Giving Up"

Pictorial Parade

"One of the major things holding back progress today is the cynicism that has taken hold of people. We have to stop being so cynical, because that doesn't get us anywhere. It has become fashionable to be cynical, but that's really a holding action against change. It doesn't do anything but paralyze people. I think there is a reason for this tendency. People see what is happening all around them and feel that they don't matter. They feel worthless and even stop looking for good things within themselves. So being cynical becomes a defense and a justification for not doing anything. It is much harder to have hopes and act to bring them about. When you are cynical you are just giving up. You might as well be dead. For our survival and progress we have to drop such barriers and expand our efforts toward change. That's the only way we will have a purpose in living." Shirley MacLaine's latest book is "You Can Get There From Here."

The Doctor Lets You In

New Family of Wonder Drugs

There is a new family of drugs, called prostaglandins (PG's), that is astounding scientists. PG's are normally found in body tissues in minute amounts—there are different PG variants in different tissues. The body makes them from essential unsaturated fatty acids (arachidonic acid, linolenic acid, etc.) taken in the diet. Originally, PG's were separated from human and sheep seminal fluid. More recently they have been found in a marine coral. They're also produced by chemical synthesis. PG's also have opposing roles. Some dilate the bronchial tubes—useful in treating asthma; others constrict bronchial tubes and may cause an asthmatic attack. . . . The only PG presently authorized for use in the U.S. by the FDA is one that is being used to hasten labor and also to terminate pregnancy. . . . But other PG's are being used experimentally to increase blood flow in the lungs; to lower blood pressure; to stimulate the adrenal glands to produce natural cortisone or stimulate the thyroid to increase thyroid hormones. Other PG's can inhibit secretion of acid stomach juices (useful in treating stomach ulcer). Eventually they may be used for migraine or even as contraceptive agents. Within ten years, perhaps sooner, PG's could revolutionize medical treatment.—By Erwin Di Cyan, Ph.D.

What Is "Image Eating"?

"Image eating" is a new dieting trick that's getting popular among TV celebrities. In image eating, a doctor asks his overweight patient to imagine herself in a bikini. While she's still shuddering, he asks her to imagine eating a slimming meal: cottage cheese salad with fruit, for instance—tasty enough, yet the kind of meal that can slim her down. Then he asks her to see herself wearing a whole new wardrobe two sizes smaller than her present one. In technical terms, this is called covert conditioning: You're repelled by the "old" fat you, and you identify slim, two-sizes-smaller you with the tasty-enough meal. Many researchers say that deliberately stopping before lunch and dinner and projecting these images is ideal. You flinch from the "old" you, and you identify the "new" you with the lower-calorie meal. Gradually, you achieve a new eating pattern. Some good low-calorie lunches to practice with image eating: shrimp salad with lemon; hard-boiled eggs with paprika, on lettuce; broiled fish with parsley and lemon, green salad. —By Harriet La Barre

People and You

Do Good Looks Affect How People Judge You?

If you're good-looking, does that mean that you are also good, kind, honest and sincere? Ask that of people and they'll probably laugh at you. "Of course not," they'll say. But strangely, what we say doesn't match what we do. Most people are susceptible to good looks. When three psychologists conducted experiments on people's reactions, they discovered a strong tendency to assume that good-looking people are good people. In the experiments, volunteers were given photographs of attractive, average and below-average men and women. They were asked to judge how kind, generous, serious, stable, interesting, sincere, sexually warm, outgoing, sociable, etc., each of the people was. In another test, they were asked to judge their friendliness, enthusiasm, social poise and trustworthiness. In all cases, people forgot about beauty being skin deep and decided that good looks probably meant good personality and good character.—By Shirley Sloan Fader

Jobmanship

What It Takes to Succeed as a Secretary

Many people become secretaries. Some are happy and successful in their work, while others who are just as intelligent are restless and dissatisfied. Why? The Johnson O'Connor Research Foundation, a nonprofit group that has tested half a million people for job aptitudes since 1922, says it's not just a matter of "making up your mind to succeed," it's also a matter of your natural abilities and your basic personality. A good secretary needs clerical ability, a natural ease in dealing with paper work, figures and symbols, as well as high finger dexterity. Without the clerical ability she/he makes mistakes, falls behind, daydreams, is just plain unhappy. Without finger dexterity, a secretary never masters the skills well enough to enjoy the work. Moreover, clerical workers and private secretaries need two different personalities. To spend hours typing, doing accounts, running machines or other solitary work, clerical workers need a "subjective" personality that makes them enjoy concentrating on the task at hand rather than working with people. A private secretary needs to enjoy dealing with people. A secretary also needs inductive reasoning talent—the ability to form a logical conclusion from scattered facts. The qualities that interfere with being a good secretary are: high creativity, a talent for thinking in three dimensions, an ability to think ahead and foresee situations, plus a strong inner drive to succeed.—By S. R. Redford

What a Deaf-Blind Man Can Teach Us About Emotion

Joseph Jedd

Deaf-blind Dick Kinney "talks" with author Lyle M. Crist, who has written a biography of Kinney entitled "Through the Rain and Rainbow" (Abingdon Press, $5.95).

"The deaf-blind want to perceive as much as you do. They don't want a cold, metallic message when emotion is involved. When you laugh, you move your body a bit, don't you? Aren't you agitated in a hearty laugh?"
—Dick Kinney (deaf and blind)

I laughed. My friend Dick Kinney had made a witty, humorous comment and I laughed.

Then I tapped him on the wrist, moved my fingers to a small machine resembling a portable typewriter, and slowly punched the keys "H-A, H-A."

I assumed there was no better way to respond. Dick Kinney is totally deaf and totally blind; the machine is the TellaTouch, a wonder aid for the deaf-blind, devised by the American Foundation for the Blind. By spelling out my laughter on the keys, I knew Dick received the impression in momentary thrusts of Braille dot patterns against the tip of his forefinger, placed on the other side of the TellaTouch.

He chuckled over my "H-A, H-A" message, but in that moment his expression betrayed a lesson I had yet to learn about the full meaning of communication among all of us.

Wonderful as it is, the TellaTouch was inadequate that morning, and the lesson from the incident goes far beyond the interview. I was in Dick Kinney's home in Winnetka, Ill., gathering material for the biography of this remarkable man. Blind at age seven, becoming deaf during his sophomore year in college, he lived in a vacuum without a clear sense of purpose for nearly a decade before Helen Keller and a host of interested agencies assisted his return to studies at Mount Union College in Ohio, using specially trained student-associates to communicate classroom lectures to him.

In 1954 he became only the third deaf-blind person in history to earn a college degree. Helen Keller was the first; Robert Smithdas of St. Johns University, the second. Today Kinney is president of the Hadley Correspondence School for the Blind in Winnetka, supervising its far-ranging curriculum, handling all fund raising, overseeing public relations, leading its many personal contacts with more than 4,000 students (a scattering of them deaf-blind) over the world.

His book, "Independent Living Without Sight and Hearing," is the text for a unique course for the deaf-blind, taught now by Geraldine Lawhorn, an equally remarkable black woman on Chicago's South Side. She, too, is deaf and blind.

Reading some of Kinney's comments on communication several weeks after the interview, I found that he was cautioning those in the families of deaf-blind persons to avoid using the TellaTouch when conveying emotion. To respond to a deaf-blind person's witty comment or joke simply with a "H-A, H-A" on the machine was "inadequate." "It is cold," he had written.

Well! On my next trip to Winnetka for material for the biography, I reminded Dick of my boner—I had relied on the TellaTouch for my laughter. And he remembered. "But after all, Lyle, any machine is too mechanical for real emotion. When you say something funny, don't you want a genuinely emotional reaction?"

I tapped his wrist.

"And don't you want to see a smile and hear a good, hearty laugh?"

Another single tap.

"Why?"

"To assure me that I've really said something considered funny." This time on the TellaTouch.

"Exactly. And those are the two experiences that I can't have—not in the same manner you can."

"What's to be done then?" The mechanical message seemed so logical.

He was emphatic. "The deaf-blind want to perceive as much as you do. They don't want a cold, metallic message when emotion is involved. When you laugh, you move your body a bit, don't you? Aren't you agitated in a hearty laugh?"

My single tap on his wrist again meant "Yes."

Dick smiled. "Then agitate yourself! If you're agitated, come up to me, right next to me, agitate your arm against mine; take your arms and run them up and down my arms. Be agitated. In other words, do something that I can perceive directly, on the strength of the sensory perceptions I do have. Give me a sensory clue and I'll reach my own judgment about what's going on!"

He added, with his own brand of humor once again, "Why, if you do that, I will know that one of two things

Smart Cooking Just For Fun

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen blends herbs into sparkling jellies to serve with grilled chicken or a cool salad supper.

Jellies You Can Make From Your Garden!

Why not make some extra-special-tasting fresh herb jellies from your own garden?

PARSLEY JELLY

3 cups boiling water
4 cups chopped parsley (2 large bunches)
2 tablespoons lemon juice (1 lemon)
1 box (1¾ ozs.) powdered fruit pectin
4½ cups (2 lbs.) sugar
Few drops green food coloring

1. Pour boiling water over parsley in bowl. Cover and let stand 15 minutes. Strain through cheesecloth or jelly bag. Measure 3 cups juice into large saucepan.

2. Add lemon juice and powdered fruit pectin. Place over high heat and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil.

3. Add all sugar immediately and stir. Blend in a few drops of green food coloring.

4. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat; skim off foam with metal spoon and pour liquid quickly into sterilized glasses. Cover at once with ⅛-inch hot paraffin.

Makes 5¼ cups or 6 (8 ozs.) glasses

HERB JELLY

2½ cups boiling water
4 tablespoons dried herb leaves*
4½ cups (2 lbs.) sugar
¼ cup vinegar
Few drops green food coloring
½ bottle liquid fruit pectin

1. Pour boiling water over herb leaves. Cover and let stand 15 minutes. Strain through cheesecloth or jelly bag. Measure 2 cups into a large saucepan.

2. Thoroughly mix sugar and vinegar into juice in saucepan. Place over high heat and bring to a boil, stirring constantly. Add food coloring. Stir in fruit pectin at once.

3. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard 1 minute, stirring constantly.

4. Remove from heat; skim off foam with metal spoon and pour liquid quickly into sterilized glasses. Cover at once with ⅛-inch hot paraffin.

Makes 4½ cups or 5 (8 ozs.) glasses

What's Smart? It's cheaper to make your own herb jellies than to buy them. Cost, using fresh herbs from your garden: 21 cents per glass. It costs about 26 cents per glass to use dried store-bought herbs.

What a Deaf-Blind Man Can Teach Us About Emotion

has happened: Either I've said something very funny—or you have a bad case of the palsy!"

And he will have learned of the reaction himself, on the strength of his own senses. That is what is most important.

This is the man who, at the age of 37, fell in love with a blind girl. "It was a case of love at first touch!" The same genuine, open emotion led to their marriage, their child. And the same genuine sense of dominion has enabled him to go on after Evelyn's death just three years after their wedding.

Today, Dick Kinney tells me that most deaf-blind persons, perhaps one in every 20,000 in our nation, are those of later years who, deprived of one sense earlier in life, lose the second after years of home, family, career. When the vacuum world of deaf-blindness overtakes them, they are too old to go to school again, they feel too set in their ways to explore new patterns of learning.

As a result, they retreat to the security of a living room chair, live out their lives in retreat. Kinney's course by correspondence—for both the deaf-blind and their families—puts them back in the mainstream again. And communication is the key element.

The TellaTouch and Braille are tremendous aids, but part of the opportunity lies with the families and friends of deaf-blind persons. We can learn too. Learn to adapt our responses to the perceptions that remain.

I've been more free in displaying emotion since that second interview with Dick Kinney. There are other lessons to be learned, but communication has always been a two-way process. All Dick Kinney wants is for the deaf-blind person to have his rightful share through the open, natural use of touch.

The reasoning applies, in fact, to all of us.

Now! With the simple method of Foot Reflexology!

'You Can Get Almost Immediate Relief from Aches and Pains All Over the Body!'

"I have brought relief to countless suffering people with this method—and have watched their joy of regained health and vitality—when all hope had seemingly been lost!"

"Let me show you how it can bring about the normal function of a specific location or organ..."

Says MILDRED CARTER, Professional Reflexologist

Dear Friend:

My name is Mildred Carter. I am not a doctor, but for over 14 years, I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains all over the body, with a method—which you can use, too—called Foot Reflexology.

Foot Reflexology is a method for healing the whole body. If you've ever suffered from foot trouble, you know that it's the feet that make the whole body ache. By rubbing and pressing gently on certain areas of your feet, I can show you how you may get almost immediate relief IN OTHER PARTS OF THE BODY!

Why? Because the feet contain Reflexes, which lead like telephone lines to all parts of the body. By pressing them, you help restore normal circulation and health to congested areas. No one can guarantee a cure, nor is it a medical substitute, but:

- I have seen it relieve crippled hands and feet, caused by painful arthritis, straighten whole bodies and bring them back to normal!
- It can stop the pain of hemorrhoids almost immediately!
- Most headaches vanish immediately with this method!
- I have seen it relieve liver and gall bladder trouble!
- I have seen it clear up stuffed sinuses almost immediately!
- I have seen it relieve back troubles, in a matter of seconds!
- I have seen it bring fast relief to stomach troubles!
- I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins with this method. This is also true with cramps or pains in the legs!
- I have seen it relieve bladder trouble quickly, with great relief after the very first treatment—all sensation of burning or itching seems to disappear completely!
- This simple method can bring women blessed relief from many disorders which may have been troubling them for years!
- I have brought relief to men, in every case of prostate trouble I have ever treated with this method!

...And still that's just the beginning! You'll find the full details of this amazing method of healing in a new book which I have written, called HELPING YOURSELF WITH FOOT REFLEXOLOGY. I'll tell you how to get it in just a moment, but first I want to tell you more about it!

Many Healings Reported!

Foot Reflexology is a safe, natural, and inexpensive way to help restore healthful circulation to every area of your body.

Did you ever notice how quickly water freshens when good water is poured into muddy water? Foot Reflexology does the same for circulation in your body. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and organs become sluggish. Stimulating a new flow of blood to these "tired" places brings new life, clears glands and organs of years of accumulated waste.

Healings and relief from discomforts of all sorts are reported, by the dozen, in the pages of my book. All were obtained with the help of Foot Reflexology.

Here's What I Say In This Book:

Gall Bladder Healing "There are many cases where Reflex Massage of the liver and gall bladder has saved people from having an operation, with the stones seeming to vanish after a few treatments."—Quoted from Chapter 12

Anemic Conditions "Anyone who is anemic will find... improvement can be so rapid it is amazing. With pernicious anemia, results will be slower, but Nature will be there, changing new blood cells for old." —Quoted from Chapter 11

Helping the Heart "No matter what the nature of the trouble is, the heart can be aided with this method.... I can give you many case histories of wonderful results from this scientific massage of the reflexes on heart patients." —Quoted from Chapter 13

Relief for Leg Pain "I believe I have treated more cases of leg aches than any other malady, and most were caused by the sciatic nerve. Many people suffer for years without any relief. Yet it is so amazingly simple to banish all inflammation from this nerve in an unbelievably short time. In many cases this method has brought relief in one treatment." —Quoted from Chapter 22

Varicose Veins "I have brought lasting relief to sufferers of varicose veins by starting the proper circulation with Reflex Massage, thus causing congestion to disappear. This is also true with cramps or pains of any kind in the legs." —Quoted from Chapter 16

Relief for Hemorrhoids "Hemorrhoids are nothing more than a congested vein (known as piles). This is actually a varicose vein in the rectum. These can become so large as to protrude, causing inconvenience, much suffering, and in many cases bleeding. Though painful, they are usually suffered in silence by those who have them. Yet with Reflex Massage they are one of the quickest to respond to treatment. Here we will learn how to use the Reflexology method to bring you prompt relief!" —Quoted from Chapter 21

How to Make Reflexology Your Rejuvenator "Would you like to be young again? Would you like to walk expectantly into the future, to enjoy new experiences, with a revitalized body? We do not have to be old... Reflexology rejuvenates the entire body, giving new life to glands and cells. Blood flow slows over the years. Naturally, glands and cells become sluggish. Reflexology stimulates a new flow of blood to these tired places, clears glands and cells of accumulated waste, brings them new life!" —Quoted from Chapters 3 and 24

You'll Discover...

- How Reflexology relieved a man's stuffed sinuses. "After the first treatment, he could suddenly breathe through both sides of his nose" and he felt well again.
- How a woman who had hurt her spine, and was in so much pain that she called a bone specialist to take x-rays, received so much relief with Reflexology—after a single treatment—that she was able to get up and do her work. She felt so much better, in fact, that she cancelled her appointment for x-rays, and claims she is fully recovered.
- How a man with a hunchback—a huge, ugly bulge—received a complete healing with Reflexology. He was freed of pain, and "he was able to stand straight." The hump disappeared. "He was not deformed at all," I reported!
- How a man who suffered from ulcers, kidney trouble, hay fever, and constipation, received complete relief with Reflexology. "The symptoms of each illness disappeared one by one," and today he sleeps like a baby every night!
- How a man with a heart condition was healed with Reflexology. Doctors had always warned him he couldn't do the things other men did. With this method, "his heart returned to normal enough to allow him to do anything he wanted, without any trouble. Today, after more than 10 years, he is a strong and well man."

IMPORTANT NOTE:

If foot reflexology therapy does not work after giving it a sincere try, consult your doctor. You will not have harmed yourself. In the very attempt of self-help, you will have done yourself a lot of psychological good.

My name is Mildred Carter. I am not a doctor, but I have been helping people receive remarkable relief from seemingly hopeless aches and pains!

What A Physiotherapist Says:

"During my forty-eight years as a Physiotherapist in my own Treatment Centers... I have had every opportunity to observe the amazing benefits of manual massage. As a means of rehabilitation where physical trauma is involved, it ranks high in the annals of Medicine.

"The techniques described in Mrs. Carter's book have been developed by experts in the field of reflex massage, and we have no hesitation in recommending them.... For the relief of pain, we know of no other means short of opiates to achieve this objective."

– CLARENCE R. MUNROE
Registered Technician, Physiotherapy

AMAZING TRUE Experiences!

"Reflexology will free you from sickness and suffering, and fear of pain, when used correctly."

"There are so many personal experiences which I could recount, stories of illnesses which were relieved by reflex massage, that I find myself wanting to tell all of them at once. I have seen it do marvelous things that surprised me many times when doctors said it couldn't be done.

"If it can do this for others, it can do this for you! I have proven that this method of healing works, in my own experience. Try it on yourself and FEEL the results!"

Safe To Use!

What's more, Foot Reflexology is absolutely safe. It is the "drugless" way to better health, and requires no exercise, no expensive equipment of any kind. It is so simple, and natural, that it is safe to use on anyone, from the youngest baby to the oldest person. In fact, it is a Rejuvenator that can actually win you many years of new youth!

Read It All From Cover to Cover, For 30 Days, Entirely At Our Risk!

I have proven that this method of healing works in my own experience. You owe it to yourself to try it at our risk and FEEL the results. And I invite you to do just that! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon—TODAY!

Sports Mini-Profile

"DOC" MEDICH:

The Yankee Star Who Puts Baseball Second

When pitcher George "Doc" Medich of the New York Yankees goes on the road with his team, he doesn't take along playing cards. Instead, he spends the hours that he's not in the ball park poring over medical journals. Medich is a fourth-year medical student who expects to become the second major-league player in history to become a doctor. (The first was another Yankee, onetime infielder Bobby Brown, who is now a heart specialist in Fort Worth, Texas.) . . . Medich was the key man on the mound for the Yankees last season, winning 19 games. This followed an outstanding rookie season with New York, when he recorded one of the best earned-run averages in the American League. . . . A native of Aliquippa, Pa., Doc played both baseball and football at the University of Pittsburgh. He signed a pro baseball contract in 1970. During his first years in baseball, Medich remained in med school until June and only joined his team after that. In 1973, he began to be a full-season pitcher after arranging to spread out his medical studies. . . . Medich, who is 6-5 and 235 pounds, is one of the tallest and strongest pitchers in baseball. Medical training has given him such self-discipline that he seems completely unemotional even during the tensest moments of a game. "I get fired up, all right, but I keep my feelings all inside and never let them show." . . . Medich expects his baseball experience to help him in his future profession. He plans to specialize in orthopedics and will probably do a great deal of surgery on athletes who break their legs or smash their kneecaps. "I have a great deal of respect for the general practitioner, but I want to be more than that," he says, "—just like I want to be more than just a pretty good pitcher." . . .The 26-year-old pitcher married the former Donna Creekmore five years ago and has a two-year-old child. He says he never intends to become a fringe player in baseball. "If I can't continue as a frontline member of a major-league team, I'll leave the sport and devote all my time to medicine," he says.

We could all use less friction.

Friction? Who needs it? Friction leads to wear and tear.

STP Oil Treatment does something about friction by helping to protect your engine from it. Just add a can to the crankcase when the oil is changed, and the first time it's down.

That'll help the oil lubricate better than it would without STP. And a well lubricated motor is the best way to help reduce oil consumption, bearing wear and prolong engine life.

Try a can of STP Oil Treatment. See what driving's like when everything's running smoothly.

It helps your oil do a better job.

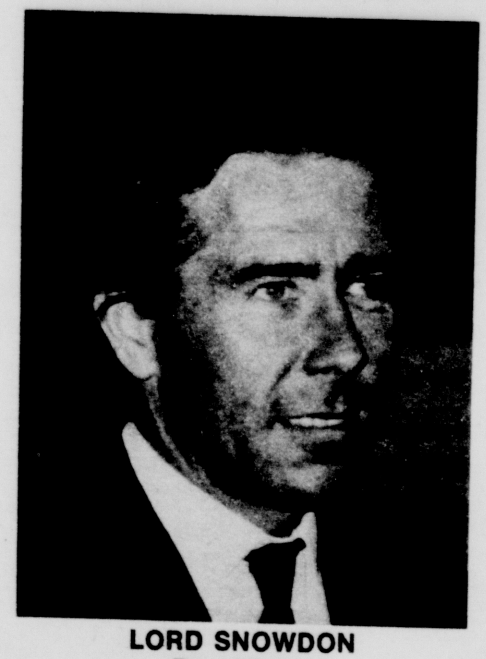
What in the World!



LORD SNOWDON
Royal fears

In New York recently to show his 250-picture exhibit, Princess Margaret's husband (known professionally as Anthony Armstrong-Jones) said: "Performers have stage fright; I have 'film fright.' I've been a professional photographer for 20 years, but things don't necessarily get easier because you've been doing them for a long time. For me, the terror gets worse as I get older. Only when I'm halfway through a job can I begin to relax. Lord Snowdon became interested in photography at 14, and his interest on a more serious level was revived after he flunked a university architectural course. Although he takes pride in his work, Lord Snowdon says, "It's nonsense to call photography 'art.' Photography is only a way of informing people about life. Pictures are to look at in papers and magazines, and then the newsprint should be used to wrap up fish."

LANA TURNER
Stuck on Gable

During Hollywood's "Golden Years" every woman had a crush on Clark Gable, but Lana Turner was really stuck on him. The actress who became typed as the "Sweater Girl" recalled for FAMILY WEEKLY how her film career almost ended because of a kiss: "I guess my most embarrasing moment came while I was filming a love scene with Clark. I was just a teenager and he was at the height of his career. I had this adolescent habit of chewing gum constantly, and as we were doing a kissing scene the gum I was chewing passed from my mouth into his and caught on his caps. You can't imagine the look on his face! From that point on, before the cameras started rolling, the director made sure I had removed my gum." At least she wasn't wearing braces.

How to find happiness as a clown: Peggy Williams, the first female graduate of Ringling Brothers Clown College, says: "If you love people the way I do, you couldn't find a more satisfactory career." Peggy graduated from the University of Wisconsin as a speech-pathology major and planned to go to France to study pantomime with Marcel Marceau. She gave up those plans when she heard of the clown college, and she's satisfied with her choice: "Clowning is the only profession I could think of where I'd have total freedom to express myself. I make up my own characters and costumes. Anyway, I'm a born ham!" Peggy's special skill is making people and objects vanish (illusion, of course). "It's total fantasy," she says. "Physical jokes, like falling over backward, aren't my style. Once I broke my foot just trying to do a cartwheel."

ADOL-LESSONS

If you've an adolescent in Your home, or maybe two,
I sympathize and realize
What you are going through.

No vaccine cures this awesome ill
With consequences vast.
You just must wait that distant date
When it at last has passed.

While adolescents adolesce
I hope that you have got Such strength and hope with which to cope
As I, alas, have not.

Nowadays, if you're offered the world on a silver platter, don't be foolish—take the platter. —Dorothea Kent

One Sunday on our way to church, we passed a very beautiful rose in a garden. My four-year-old son exclaimed, "A pretty flower." To this I answered, "That's called a rose." He answered a little angrily, "Yes, but her last name is flower."

WORDS AND PICTURES

Words and pictures don't begin to show the beauty, brilliance, and fire of these magnificent Gemfire rings. That's why we want you to wear them and judge them on their own merits — not on what we tell you. See if your friends and family can tell them from an expensive "natural" diamond worth 100 times as much. In all probability you can fool them if you want to. Not many people can tell these brilliant Gemfire simulates from the expensive real ones. Yet now you can own these beautiful rings at amazingly low prices.

AN EXCITING GIFT FOR SOMEONE SPECIAL

These Gemfire rings make a much appreciated gift for a special someone in your life. They will last a lifetime. Give for birthdays, anniversaries or just as a wonderful surprise. And even if you choose to tell, your loved one will be amazed and proud that you were clever enough to find such an expensive-looking ring at these remarkably low prices. The difference between it and a natural diamond could make a down payment on a new car, or home, or even a wonderful vacation for just you two!

With Our Guarantee You Take No Risks.

If at the end of 30 days you are not completely satisfied, return by INSURED MAIL for purchase price refund. At any time, or for any reason, and in any condition, you may return your Gemfire simulated diamond by INSURED MAIL for FREE replacement.

LOW PRICE DOESN'T MILLIONAIRES EVEN

Mean Low Quality. Gemfire simulated diamonds are not cheap fakes. In fact, Gemfires are carefully cut and polished by skilled craftsmen in the same manner as natural diamonds. They have 58 facets — just like natural diamonds. They are hand set in heavy 18Kt-HGE (heavy gold electroplate), or solid sterling silver by master craftsmen. They shine like a $1,000 diamond — but cost less than $20.00.

Wear Simulated Diamonds. Today many wealthy people, TV and movie stars feel unsafe making public appearances wearing expensive jewelry. Oftentimes they keep their diamonds in a safe deposit box and wear these master-crafted Gemfire simulated diamonds and impress your friends!

How to Find Your Ring Size

1. Cut a strip of paper 3 inches long and 1/4 inch wide.

2. Wrap the strip around the finger that is to wear the ring. Then place a dot, on the strip where it meets the end.

3. Place the dot on the strip of paper at "A" on the ring guide. The number at the end of the strip is your ring size.
